GIRL'S BODY GOES ASTRAY.

Shipped From Yuma (Ariz.) to Illinois for Burial, Cannot Be Found.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PEORIA (Ill.) Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Hundreds of dollars are being spent by H. A. Farley, head of the Peoria Stone and Marble Works, in an effort to locate the body of his daughter, Frances Florence, a society girl, who died at Yuma, Ariz., on Thursday. The body was shipped immediately, but was missent and is lost in the transit. Mr. Farley is now in Missouri. All funeral arrangements are postponed. The Farleys and other Peoria society people went to Yuma two weeks ago for their health.

One pair large pearl ear-rings, set with diamonds.

One black pearl brooch, set with diamonds, with a black pearl-shaped pendant.

A wireless message sent from the Amerika as she neared port summoned detectives down the bay in a tug. They learned details of the theft from Mrs. Drummond and began a search of the crew. But not a trace of the jewels was found.

STOLEN WHILE ASLEEP.

Mrs. Drummond explained that except while she slept at night she had worn the jewels almost constantly, but had kept them under her waist, not displaying them at any time. Last night, on retiring, she placed them in a cabinet drawer of the stateroom, as she had done each night during the voyage. So far as she knew, no one had access to the stateroom, she added, besides her husband, herself and her maid. The maid she holds above suspicion.

Arising early this morning to make her toilets, she was startled to find the drawer empty. The capt. of the Amerika was notified and a quiet investigation was begun before an aero...

ENDS LIFE IN WIFE'S PRESENCE.

Eureka Man, in a Moment of Insane Jealousy, Blows Out His Brains—Wife Hysterical.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.

EUREKA. (Cal.) Feb. 26.—Insane jealousy of his bride of four days prompted John Ellis to kill himself in her presence last night. Since he fell dying at her feet the young woman has been hysterical, and the attending physician fears for her reason. Threatening her with death if she refused, Ellis compelled his wife's aunt, Mrs. M. Roy, to bring his bride into his presence to see him fire the shot into his brain.

The suicide followed a quarrel in which Ellis accused his wife of having received some trivial attention from another man.

OKLAHOMA CITY (Okla.) Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] John Feidler was arrested early Saturday morning charged with the attempted murder of his wife, aged 61, who was shot through the head at her home east of the city last night. The sound of a shot drew neighbors to the house and Mrs. Feidler was found lying by a window. No one else was in the house at the time, but Feidler ran in soon. He declared he also was attracted by the sound of the shot.

QUITS RACE FOR SENATE.

Shepard Out of New York Fight.

Declares Sheehan's Retirement Imminent in Letter to Hare.

Littleton Sees Danger With Legislative Deadlock Unbroken.

Leader Asks Murphy to Keep Hands Off in Choice of Depew's Successor.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Edward M. Shepard, in a letter to Montgomery Hare tonight, announced his retirement from the fight for the United States Senatorship to succeed Chauncey M. Depew. He adds that in his opinion, William F. Sheehan's retirement is imminent and warns the Democratic members of the Legislature that unless the members "promptly unite, the extra session of Congress will find the State of New York but half represented."

Earlier in the day, Martin W. Littleton issued a statement pointing, as does Mr. Shepard, to the "grave responsibility" resting upon the Democratic Legislature and calling upon Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, to cause the retirement of Mr. Sheehan and break the five weeks' deadlock at Albany.

SHEPARD'S LETTER.

Mr. Shepard's letter says in part:

"The futile balloting has continued at Albany, for more than five weeks after the date prescribed by law for the choice. One week from today, the seat of the new Democratic Senator will be ready for him at Washington.

"Unless the Democratic members promptly unite, the extra session, which now seems probably, will find the State of New York but half represented.

"It was plain a month or more ago, that Mr. Sheehan's caucus nomination had aroused a Democratic opposition so presistent as to render impossible his election by Democrats. I assume, therefore, not only that Mr. Sheehan will not be chosen, but at this late day the fact is clear to himself and his supporters.

"Assuming that Mr. Sheehan's withdrawal is imminent, there rests upon the members of the Democratic minority a grave further responsibility.

"The impending end of the candidacy of Mr. Sheehan seems to me to require some change of programme to which, in a slight degree, I can perhaps contribute. Now that the one long-continued obstruction to a genuinely Democratic choice is probably ended, the voters for myself ought to give way to other and more effective votes."

TAMMANY SCORES.

Mr. Shepard denounces the Tammany dominance of the caucus which chose Mr. Sheehan, and declares that the Democratic party can never succeed in this State when it is generally believed that Tammany controls the nominations.

Martin W. Littleton made public today a letter to Charles F. Murphy asking the Tammany leader to leave the legislators of New York State free to "register their own will and exercise their own choice" in the election of the successor to Senator Depew. He tells Mr. Murphy that by holding the Democrats in the Senate and Assembly to their caucus pledges for W. F. Sheehan he is jeopardizing the prospects of national Democratic unity and of Democratic success in the next Presidential campaign.

Mr. Littleton predicts that if the deadlock continues, the Canadian reciprocity treaty, tariff reform and the proposition to elect Senators by direct vote may fail for want of a Democratic Senator from New York.

APPEAL UPON QUEER GROUNDS.

Indiana Judge Receives Jury's Verdict Late at Night While in Costume for Masquerade Ball.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BLOOMVILLE (Ind.) Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Charles Burton, on trial this week for the killing of Ausa Staples, and found guilty of manslaughter, may be granted a new trial on peculiar grounds.

It happened that the verdict was returned about 8 o'clock at night. At the time a colonial dress party was to be given by the Argonaut Literary Club.

The court bailiff called up by phone the home of Judge Charles E. Henderson, who had presided at the trial and announced that a verdict had been reached.

The judge was costumed as in the days of the revolution, ready for the party, with silk knickerbockers, white silk stockings fancy slippers with silver buckles not to mention laces and ruffs swallowtail coat and a powdered wig and was impersonating no less a character than George Washington.

In this costume removing only his wig he hastened to the courtroom and heard the verdict read. Now arises the question, may a judge appear on the bench in disguise, or in other words, may a judge receive a verdict in a case he has already passed on in his official capacity, except in his own proper person? A number of lawyers have raised the question.

BABE IN WRECK UNHURT.

Occupies Sleeper Berth When Train Is Derailed and Car Turns Over; Sustains Not a Scratch.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO, Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Playing with his toes and chortling in his glee, a babe, missing during the wreck at Palisade, was found by its frantic mother, Mrs. A. J. Brown of San Francisco, imprisoned in a closed upper berth, where it had been a captive since the wreck.

Thrown from its mother's grasp by the jar of the crash, the wee tot disappeared. Then followed great agitation among the passengers when the loss of the child was reported, and the ravings of the grief-stricken mother, who implored train crew and passengers alike to aid in her search for her darling.

The berth had been closed by the rolling over of the car, and the babe was imprisoned. When the berth was opened he was recovered safe and sound.

BURNS CAUSE WOMAN'S DEATH.

MADE EFFORT TO SAVE CLOTHES FROM BLAZING BUILDING.

While She Was in the House the Roof Fell in and the Woman in Hysterical Frenzy Runs All the Way in the Snow to Where Her Husband Is at Work.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SALMON CITY (Idaho) Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Joseph Moodie, died here Thursday morning from burns, frost bite and exposure, the victim of one of the most horrible accidents recorded in this part of the country.

During the last year Mr. and Mrs. Moodie have been living in a cabin near the Copper Queen mine about seven miles northwest of town. The mine has been closed during the winter and Moodie has been acting as watchman doing work at a mine over the divide.

Wednesday afternoon the cabin caught fire. Mrs. Moodie, who was in the place with her 3-months'-old child, took the baby into a tent near the cabin and returned to the burning building for clothes.

While she was in the house, the roof fell in. Before she got out the clothing was burned from her body. Frantic with pain and terror, she started on the journey to where her husband was working. Her trail was marked by fragments of burned clothing.

The snow was deep all along the track. She made her way to the mouth of the tunnel where she was met by her husband. He returned with her to the tent where the baby was found almost dead from cold. Mrs. Moodie died the following day but the child will recover.

"Here you are, sir," said the driver in front of an imposing building.

Johnson got out, paid his fare, registered, checked his baggage and then started on a tour of the city. From that day he has not seen the hotel. Nor has he been able to discover any trace of it.

"The hotel must be somewhere," he says, " who ever heard of a big hotel getting lost like this? It can't be"

Today Johnson will look some more.

EL PASO WOMAN HELD IN JAIL CHARGED WITH KILLING CHILD.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Agnes Orner is held in the El Paso jail, without bond, on the charge of murder in the first degree in connection with the death of her 11-year-old daughter, Lillie, who died recently under most suspicious circumstances.

A post mortem examination of the child's stomach gave three separate and distinct tests for arsenic poisoning, according to Dr. W. L. Brown, who testified at the preliminary hearing.

Mrs. Orner's husband, who was Pullman conductor running between El Paso and Los Angeles, died suddenly and under similar circumstances on July 27, 1910. Mrs. Orner was tried for insanity at the time and given her liberty, although suspicions of poisoning were strong at the time.

Two babies belonging to the Orners and Mrs. John Hughes, a roomer at the Orner home, have died suddenly and without previous sickness, according to the police. One baby died in Globe, Ariz., while the Orners lived there. Another died in Minneapolis and Mrs. Hughes died in El Paso two years ago. The baby of a servant also died unexpectedly, making six persons in all who have died with whom Mrs. Orner has been closely connected.

She carried a life insurance policy on the daughter who died last.

Things Will Move.

CHET ROWELL AND BOSS LISSNER ON HAND TO CRACK HI'S WHIP.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

BY W. R. WILLIAMS.

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Progress on the Los Angeles tide land measures is to be rapid, according to the plans made by Senator Hewitt today. He has called a meeting of the subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee for tomorrow afternoon, to bring the tidelands measures of all ports to a common basis so they may all go through together. Besides Los Angeles, Oakland, San Diego and Long Beach, are asking cession of such lands and it is planned that all shall go through together, and, if possible, during the coming week. Little trouble is expected in the Assembly, where no questions have been raised.

An impression that the action of the San Francisco commercial organizations had a basis in the alignment of the Los Angeles members with those of San Francisco, in support of the Wolfe Greater San Francisco consolidation amendment, is erroneous, and is being contradicted by the Los Angeles delegation. San Francisco wanted such an arrangement, but the committee of which Joseph Scott and James Slauson were the leaders declined to make any such agreement. Such an alignment would have alienated the Oakland vote from the harbor bills and brought active opposition from the members from the east side of the bay district.

Senator Hewitt, in view of this, will put the tide lands bill ahead of all others, including his consolidation amendment. At present the Los Angeles delegation is about evenly divided on the Hewitt city and county division measure, also known as the city and county consolidation bill, and Oakland has made such a fight on the Wolfe measure that no amendment for consolidation of any kind is likely to go through the Legislature.

WON'T BE LISSNERIZED.

Senator Gates, who leads the opposition to the city and county consolidation measure of Hewitt refuses to be Lissnerized on this matter. The little boss is still here preparing for the work of driving the Gates recall through the Assembly, but even this did not prevent Gates from saying tonight:

"I have made up my mind that I can support no measure having for its object the division of Los Angeles county, which does not permit a separate vote by the portions to be dismembered."

This is contrary to the voice of Lissner and his proteges in the meeting here Saturday, when an attempt was made to spank Gates. Gates's attitude is shared by five other members.

Members tell me that the consolidation scheme has in it a very subtle bug in a political way. Lissner's support of the project is purely political, they say, and is because he wants to draw a ring around certain territory and call it his own. His ring would throw five of the six members now opposing the consolidation scheme into the new county and leave him a little political empire of his own.

It has been announced that there will be a joint meeting of the reapportionment committees of both houses Tuesday night. The announcement came from the Assembly side and seems to be in error, for Senator Thompson, chairman of the Senate committee, says so. Thompson says, and smiles while saying it, that his committee has not even organized yet. He is recognized as a skillful manager of delicate measures and it is hinted that he has his measure all ready and is just waiting for all others to wear out before calling his committee together and acting. The Senate, at least, trusts to him to solve the problem.

RANDALL SCHEME UNPOPULAR.

Randall's scheme is meeting condemnation from Los Angeles members because it provides for districts that are nearly all city and country, thus tacking the country on to city vote in a way to give the city vote control. This is suggestive to Lissner tactics, too. The city is to be the hub of nearly every district. In such an arrangement it is found that several persons, now members, would be without hope of return.

The coming week promises to be a busy one, with Lissner and Rowell here to lay the whips on. Lieut.-Gov. Wallace is being criticised for the tardiness of the Senate with its business, but impartial judges say he does not deserve censure. The fact is, he has made a better presiding officer than was expected and is hindered as much by Senatorial courtesy as anything else. He is blamed for not having cleared the lobbies of lobbyists, who have thronged them for weeks. Under the rules he has arbitrary power. Now that Lissner and Rowell are here again to resume the lobbying they started in the Works election, Senators think Wallace will have good reason to enforce the rule and it has been suggested that he may do it.

Local option. Wallace's great hope, will be before the Senate tomorrow for Army Man's Wife Indignant.

Opposes Attempt to Reopen Capt. Smith Court-Martial Case.

Society Matron Declares Affair Is Repetition of Former Scandal.

Says Disgraced Officer Is Fighting Like a Rat in Corner.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. George L. Barnette, wife of Lieut.-Col. Barnette, in command of the Marine Corps at League Island, today served notice upon the authorities at Washington and friends of former Capt. Guy H. F... Smith, who was cashiered from the army after trial by court-martial on charges unbecoming an officer, that should they reinstate or even endeavor to reinstate Capt. Smith in the army, she would come forward with other charges of similar nature to those for which the former captain lost his shoulder stripes.

The alleged improper conduct for Which Capt. Smith was cashiered occured while Mrs. Barnette and her two children and Capt. Smith were fellow passengers on an army transport coming from Manila to San Francisco. They are all centered around the 7 year old daughter of Mrs. Barnette.

The court-martial, dismissing Smith from the service, was held at Fort Crook, Neb., four months ago, and the testimony and findings were kept profound secret. United States Senator Burton of Ohio apparently endeavored to reopen the case a few days ago.

PROMINENT IN SOCIETY.

Mrs. Barnette, who is well known in Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington society and whose first husband was Basil Gordon, a wealthy Baltimore merchant, was much wrought up today when she learned that the testimony and findings of the court martial had become public. In the presence of her husband she made this statement:

"Capt. Smith is guilty by his own confession. He is fighting like a rat in a corner. I am in a position to know of his confession, but am sworn to secrecy. I would not have spoken if his friends had not chosen to open the matter. I suppose every criminal denies his guilt and has friends who are willing to help him.

"The charges that were brought against Capt. Smith were preferred at the earnest request of the highest ranking officers in the army for the good of the service. It is scarcely likely that a civilian, a woman, could sway the entire United States. He received fair play. He was tried by the highest ranking officers in the army, none of the members of the court-martial being below the rank of major. He was represented by counsel, and was presumed innocent until he was found guilty. He was found guilty by a jury of his peers, and the verdict was approved by the President.

WILL DIG UP OLD CASE.

"If his friends wish to have this case reopened, I notify them now that I will give evidence of a similar case in which he was implicated which occurred four years ago."

"Yes, but, my dear," said Lieut.-Col. Barnette, who was listening to his wife's statement, "you cannot prove the truth of these assertions."

"If the woman had come forward at that time," said Mrs. Barnette, "she would have been out of the army four years ago. She is willing to make affidavit now."

"Oh, well, let it go," concluded the colonel. "The army is well rid of a dirty dog."

Delegation of Friends Active in Endeavoring to Secure Light Sentences.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Sunday is better to justice in Mexico, and the case of Lawrence Converse and Edward Blatt, charged with the crime of sedition by taking up arms against the Mexican government, was called this morning at 10 o'clock. These two Americans were not permitted to attend their own trial, a custom which is general in Mexico, but they were represented by competent Mexican counsel who had been secured by friends of the two young adventurers in the American side.

The case was called before Judge Herrera, of the Civil Court of Letters, after it had been turned over to this court by Gen. Navarro, who declined to intercede on behalf of the boys and insisted that their cases be made an example of in order to prevent other Americans from joining the insurrecto army.

The seventy-two-hour period of incommunicado having expired late Saturday night, Converse was allowed a brief visit with his parents, who are here to aid him in any possible way. Mrs. Converse was completely overcome by her grief and kept sobbing "Oh, my son, my poor boy," throughout the brief interview.

C. H. Converse arrived from the East today and will represent his son, Lawrence Converse, tomorrow. After conferring with his son, Mr. Converse said:

"I expect to be able to show that my son and Blatt were on American soil when taken into custody by Navarro's troops. At the point where the lads were arrested, the channel of the Rio Grande has shifted and the boundary is now marked by a row of stakes, although the lads had not crossed the Rio Grande they had passed the boundary stakes and had made camp on the night when arrested by the federals."

Edward Blatt, the Pittsburgh boy, was also permitted to see a delegation of Americans from El Paso, who have gone to Juarez on behalf of the prisoners. They were American Consul T. D. Edwards, Postmaster J. A. Smith, Mayor C. E. Kelly and Customs Collector A. L. Sharpe, who is representing Gen. Harrison Gray Otis in the effort to secure liberty for the California.

It is believed that should the boys be convicted of sedition they will be given an indeterminate prison sentence and pardoned by President Diaz after the revolution closes.

Edward Blatt,

son of Pittsburgh manufacturer, who is held as a prisoner of war with Lawrence Converse, young Californian, in the Federal jail at Juarez, Mex., because he joined the insurrectos.

Gas Fitters, Steam Fitters and Steam Fitters' Helpers, and Simon O'Donnell, local president of the Building Trades Council, it was predicted that the allied trades would be called out against the steam fitters that have been ousted from the Building Trades Council.

This will mean a complete tie-up of building construction.

While these plans are said to be under way by the plumbers, it was the general opinion among electrical workers that Monday would see a strike of their workers against the Chicago Telephone Company, in which 400 workers would participate.

Pathetic Scene Enacted in Court at Tacoma When Marriage Ties Are Severed—Reconciliation Likely.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA, Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A pathetic scene was witnessed late yesterday in Judge Esterday's court when Ivy Foster was divorced from John W. Foster, a laborer. She was given the custody of three children.

When the divorce was granted Foster seemed helpless and gazed blankly until his eyes fell on Mrs. Foster. He then buried his face in his hands and wept bitterly. Like a mother soothing a heartbroken child, Mrs. Foster laid her head on Foster's shoulder. He raised his head and in a soft voice she spoke words of sympathy that only he could hear. Foster dried his tears and regained his composure.

For years the testimony showed Mrs. caused chiefly by Foster's drinking. He Foster had endured cruelty and abuse was accused of drinking daily a gallon of red claret, commonly known as "red ink."

Colorado Mining Millionaire Left Immense Sum for Founding Home for Orphan Boys—Woman Alleges Marriage and Desertion While Magnate Was Yet Poor Man.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DENVER, Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] On the very eve of the founding of the Myron Stratton Home for orphan boys, a claimant has appeared for the millions left by the late W. S. Stratton for that purpose. Stratton was the discoverer of the famous Independence mine, which was sold to an English syndicate for $10,000,000.

The claimant is Mrs. Sarah Kennedy, who alleges that in 1874 she married Stratton, who was then a poor man in San Augustine county, Tex. Securing $10,000 of her money, she alleges, he deserted her, shortly before a pair of twins were born. Fifteen years afterward she married a man named Kennedy. Later she says, she learned of Stratton's whereabouts and followed him to Leadville and Cripple Creek. She says Stratton supplied her with money up to the time of his death.

Stratton had in the meantime married and been divorced. The divorced wife received little or none of his great fortune and a grown son by that marriage got only $250,000.

Colorado Leaders Plan Campaign of Messages to Influence Nevada Legislation on Suffrage Proposal.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

DENVER, Feb. 26.—Plans have been made to flood the Nevada Assembly with messages urging woman suffrage.

On Monday next the Nevada Lower House will have before it a bill for a constitutional amendment giving the women of the State the right to vote. Leaders of Colorado suffrage organization and women voters in general, are preparing to send telegrams to Speaker Frohlich, of the Nevada House, urging the passage of the bill.

It is said these telegrams are a part of a plan to influence the Nevada Legislature in favor of votes for women, which includes action by the Governors of Idaho, Washington, Wyoming and Utah.

FILIBUSTERERS CAUGHT.

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 26.—With the capture and return to the flagship California or five sailors, ends the first attempt at filibustering to aid the rebels in Lower California. Ensign Rhoades of the California, four marines, five cavalrymen and a deputy United States marshal, effected the capture near the boundary line south of San Diego last night, and the men were taken to Coronado this morning and returned to the cruiser. Reinforcements for the Tia Juana garrison, in the shape of seventy-five Mexican cavalrymen, are expected today from Ensenada, the force having instructions to make all possible haste.

ENVOYS INITIATE NEGOTIATIONS TO END MEXICAN REVOLT, IS REPORT.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Dr. Vasquez Gomez, head of the confidential agency here of the Mexican revolutionists, announced tonight that he had received, indirectly, overtures for peace from the Federal government.

Dr. Gomez said the confidential agency here had been advised by its junta in El Paso, Tex., of the desire of Gov. Ahumada of Chihuahua to confer in Chihuahua with Francisco I. Madero, leader of the revolution, and also had been informed through its junta in San Antonio that three delegates of the Diaz government wished to meet Dr. Gomez on the border and arrange for the termination of hostilities.

DEMAND CREDENTIALS.

Dr. Gomez, who was the family physician of President Diaz and who was, in the last election, candidate for the vice-presidency of Mexico on the same ticket as Francisco Madero, the candidate for President, said the provisional government would not undertake any negotiations of peace, except under the condition that the delegates shall be legally and fully authorized with written powers.

He added it was further desired by the revolutionists that the arrangement for peace negotiations should be published and recognized by the Federal government officially.

These steps, he explained, were necessary because of the repudiation by the Federal government of connection with the peace conference arranged by Gov. Sanchez last November.

Dr. Gomez asserted the revolutionists would insist upon the abdication of the presidency by Diaz, and that tonight he telegraphed to the junta at San Antonio for information as to the source of the overtures for peace and the names of the three peace envoys sent there by Diaz.

El Paso quietly about ten days ago, according to Gonzales. They met Gonzales and Raoul Madero, brother of Francisco I. Madero, provisional president and now in the field with the insurrecto forces at Ahumada.

GONZALES'S VERSION.

According to Gonzales, the envoys asked upon what terms the insurrectos would accept peace and were informed that the provisional government would not treat with them until they presented credentials from the Mexican Congress or President Diaz.

They were told further that the first requirement of the insurrectos in any plan for establishing peace "must be a guarantee from the Mexican Government that every provision of the constitution of 1857 would be put into effect immediately and forever maintained." Another requirement is that "neither the President nor any other government official shall be eligible to re-election.

The envoys were also given to understand that before the provisional officials could accept peace terms, soldiers in the field under the insurrecto banner would have to ratify them by a formal vote.

WINGED SCOUTS TO WATCH WAR.

Army Aviation Squad Detailed to Observe Mexican Revolution Under Direction of Eugene Ely.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch. The first army aviation squad will soon be in action over Juarez. Eugene Ely left here Wednesday, and is now getting a Curtiss biplane in shape in San Diego. He will be joined there by First Lieut. J. McHenry of the Coast Artillery National Guard and Private H. B. O'Dell. They sailed yesterday. They are acting under orders of Col. George A. Schaspey of the Coast Artillery, which are the military orders issued in the United States for the formation of an actual aviation corps for war observations.

The aviators will not remain at Juarez, but will go wherever the fighting between the insurrectos and the Mexican troops is thickest. The outcome of the expedition will be awaited with interest throughout the military world, as California is the first State to send air scouts to observe actual warfare.

Ely has evolved many theories that will be tested during the operations around Juarez.

ARRESTED ON HONEYMOON.

MEXICANS CATCH COUPLE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 26.—Alexander Kerr, a wealthy merchant of Portland, Ore., and his bride, taking a honeymoon trip on the Mexican border, were arrested by Mexican rurales at Tia Juana and were locked up for four hours in the cuartel, suspected of espionage. The news was brought here Friday by Charles M. Schnibel, president of the Portland Bar Association, who, saw the arrest and was instrumental in the release of the captives. Mr. Kerr and his bride had gone to San Diego after their wedding ten days ago. At the suggestion of the bride, they took an automobile to Tia Juana and amused themselves taking snapshots of the place. They were arrested while Mr. Kerr was taking a picture of the cuartel. They were locked in the cell next to that occupied by Harry Davis Gilbert Dell, the American who is now held by the Mexican authorities as a suspected spy.

CREEL DENIES STORY OF MOVE FOR PEACE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Enrique C. Creel, the Mexican minister of foreign relations, denied tonight that any peace overtures had been made by President Diaz to the revolutionists as alleged by Gomez in his announcement tonight in Washington.

"So far as I am aware, no such overtures have been made," said Mr. Creel, "and as for the appointment of peace envoys, I can say positively the assertion is untrue."

Mr. Creel is a member of the President's official family, upon whose counsel the chief executive has seemingly placed great reliance during the present political difficulties of the nation.

LEADER CONFIRMS WASHINGTON REPORT

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

EL PASO, Feb. 26.—Confirmation of the report from Washington that the local insurrecto junta had been approached by the Mexicans, who claimed to represent the Diaz government, with peace overtures, was had here in a statement from Abraham Gonzales, provisional Governor of Chihuahua, to a local newspaperman.

Three envoys, said to be prominent in government affairs in Mexico, visited passage. Monday night the Senate Finance Committee is to hear the opposition to the California Institute of Technology which comes mainly from Berkeley. During the week the recall is to come up in the Assembly and before the week is over other Lissner platform measures are to be resuscitated from committee chloroform under the boss's direction. Civil service, amended to apply only to State officers by the Educational Committee is to be made ready for the files. The omission of all county offices is explained by the fear that it would array too many thousands against the administration, have too far reaching an effect on local politics, and might work the destruction of the reform party that is urging it.

OTHER PENDING BILLS.

Monday night, also, the labor and capital committee of the Senate is to have a final hearing on the eight-hours-for-women bill of Griffin. No one knows what will be done, but Chairman Larkins says he will oppose the bill as it stands and will urge a measure that is not so revolutionary. He favors classification of female labor and different restrictions of hours, but just how to do this under the constitution as a public health regulation is not now clear to him.

The investigation of the Supreme Court, by administration order is to be stowed in a closet, until the Gates recall gets established. After that event, if it becomes an event at all, the Senate Judiciary Committee is to find a method of disciplining the Supreme Judges.

During the coming week also the employers' liability bill is to be before the Senate in charge of its author, Roseberry, and the administration is to drive it through.

Senator Thompson has received word by wire that Pomona's Chamber of Commerce has indorsed the Hewitt and Hurd harbor bills and urged him to support them.

Joseph Scott is to meet the directors of the San Francisco Merchants' Association tomorrow and seek their indorsement of the same measures, concurrently with the other organizations. On receipt of the indorsement of this association, Senator Wolfe will join hands with Hewitt in bringing the measures to passage.

Twenty-Year Search for Slayer of Pretty School Teacher Ends With Finding o fMan in Calcutta, India.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Dist.-Atty. George Cameron has received what he says is positive information that Burdette Wolf, who has been wanted for twenty years on a charge of murdering 17-year-old Birdie Morton in Montavilla, near Portland, is in Calcutta, India. The District Attorney is preparing information to send to the British authorities for the arrest of Wolf.

Mr. Cameron today said he has learned that Wolf visited Portland several times after the murder. He said his information as to Wolf's present whereabouts was undoubtedly correct, and he was satisfied the British authorities would be able to catch him.

Miss Morton was a school teacher Wolf was a rejected suitor. He waylaid her one Sunday evening on her return from church and shot her dead. The case became celebrated the country over, because of the diligent but unavailing search made for Wolf.

"However, as far as I am concerned, I am perfectly willing to have people who have known me for the last twenty years in this State determine for themselves just how much blame to attach to me under the circumstances."

Capt. Crow's shortage has been made good by his relatives and he was not arrested.

San Francisco Man Seeks Divorce Because Wife Believes Spirits Who Tell Her He Has Affinity.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Restless spirits of the dead mixing in earthly affairs, according to a complaint for divorce filed in the Superior Court, yesterday, by Christian C. Maasberg, have broken up his home.

"They have told my wife that I have an affinity and that I am a bad man," he says, and as a result Mrs. Maasberg, with the assistance of her relatives, has torn up the carpets, taken down the pictures from the wall moved all of their belonging from the home and quit it forever.

No use to argue with his spouse, the husband says in his complaint, for she has told him that she believes what the spirits told her and does not believe his denial.

They have been married eight years and have two pretty children. Maasberg says his wife first accused him of having an affinity last January.

He asks the court to grant him a divorce, the custody of the two children and the property. He asks everything, and, as the spirits have spoiled his marital existence they can take care of Mrs. Maasberg.

PROBATION OFFICERS FIGHT.

Fisticuffs in Portland Police Court Follows Dispute Over Custody of Youthful Offender.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Bitter antagonism has existed for several months, between representatives of the "Big Brother" movement and Probation Officer John Teuscher of the Juvenile Court, brought on actual violence this morning, when Teuscher and H. C. Krum, the latter deputy probation officer, and representative of the "Big Brothers," engaged in a personal encounter over the custody of Melbourne Evans, a 14-year-old boy, arrested yesterday, on charge of horse stealing.

The encounter took place in the Juvenile Court waiting-room. In the course of the scene between the officers the lie was hurled at Teuscher by his deputy, and this led to the struggle over the boy, who was roughly handled.

The affair was terminated by Teuscher, who sent a hurry call to the Sheriff's office downstairs for a deputy to protect him. The trouble started when a reporter attempted to question the Evans boy. Teuscher forbade him to answer and Krum ordered him to answer.

San Francisco Police Start an Investigation Into Case—Boat Owned by Shasta Lumber Company Causes Accident in San Francisco Bay Saturday Afternoon.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 26.—The police are seeking the owners of the lumber schooner Comet to learn why the fact was not reported that the vessel ran down and drowned two men yesterday. The case was brought to light after a twenty-four hours search for the launch John A., by the police patrol boat and several launches, after the boat was reported missing, together with her engineer, Elmer Wagner, and Sing Lung, a Chinese, of a California shrimp company.

When John Patterson, a bay launchman, learned that the Johnson Launch Company had lost the John A., he telephoned the company that Frank M. Furman, head of the Shasta Lumber Company, owning the schooner Comet, had called him by telephone yesterday asking if he owned the launch. Johnson then telephoned Furman, and told the police that the latter admitted that the Comet had run down the launch at 10:30 yesterday morning.

Neither the launch nor her occupants were seen after the vessel passed over them.

HOME RULE MEN FEAR TORY TRAP.

Irish Nationalists Worried Over Chamberlain.

Consider Him Greatest Barrier in Path to Victory.

Great Trial of Skill Now on Before Parliament.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mr. Balfour, Lord Lansdowne, Austin Chamberlain and the other Unionist leaders are playing their game cleverly in the great trial of skill at Westminster; but the likelihood of their winning even a moral victory is diminishing fast.

The real crisis will come next week, when the Landsdowne bill for a reconstitution of the House of Lords becomes public and Chamberlain moves the Unionist hostile amendment declaring Mr. Asquith's programme to be one destined, even if not designed, to invest the Commons with all legislative power.

Austin Chamberlain is regarded by the Irish with profound dislike. They look on him, of course, as the spokesman of his father's anti-Irish policy dating back to 1886; but they are even more antagonistic because they see in him the personification of a Chamberlain doctrine of much later origin—the policy of cutting down Ireland's parliamentary delegation 40 per cent, cent.

It is Austin Chamberlain, rather than Balfour, whom the Nationalists deem the chief obstacle in their path to home rule over the prostrate body of hereditary reaction. They are not expecting any signs of a change of heart from the politician who recently said that what is most needed is not safeguards against Lords, but safeguards against the dominance of over-represented, irresponsible groups in the Commons.

Meanwhile Mr. Balfour is warned by dispassionate Unionists against the danger of "being trapped again." The warning points out that Asquith's strategy is "deep, far-seeing and effective," and that, "if the Unionists are foolish enough to compel the government to obtain powers to create 500 new peers, all of whom assuredly will be partisan Liberals, Mr. Asquith will get full control of both houses and pass whatever measures he may conceive without even two years' delay, as in the veto bill brought forward now."

Balfour is advised to let the bill go through on the clear understanding that the Unionists will repeal it at the first opportunity.

Doctors Advised Operation—Decided to Try Great Kidney Remedy.

I want to tell you in a few words what Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root did for me, believing that my testimony may do some other suffering person a great deal of good.

About six years ago, I was dangerously ill, consulted three doctors, all of whom said I had kidney trouble. One of the doctors analyzed my urine and reported that I had gravel, and further said that in order to regain my health and life, an operation would be necessary. I did not want to be operated on, as I was afraid that I would not recover. Someone told me of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root and said it was a reliable medicine for kidney trouble, so I decided to try it and went to Mr. Rose, the druggist, at 303 Central Ave., Minneapolis, and bought a bottle, took it, noticed results and continued taking it until I was entirely cured.

Having been free from any kidney trouble for over six years, I consider that I am absolutely cured, and know that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root has the credit. I never fail to tell my friends about your remedy, as I believe it is the best of its kind. Your U & O Ointment is also very good. We are never without a jar in our house.

SENATE CHOKED WITH MEASURES.

Situation Makes Extra Session Practically Certain.

Opposition to Reciprocity Is Standing Firm.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Day and night in both branches of Congress beginning sessions probably will be held today tomorrow, for only five and a half days remain to conclude a formidable legislative programme that is in an unprecedented and almost hopeless condition.

Without taking into consideration in the Senate, where there is a filibuster against taking votes on the Canadian reciprocity agreement, the permanent tariff board bill and the Lorimer case, to say nothing of the proposition to raise the rates for carrying the advertising of magazines through the mails, there is a congestion of appropriation bills that seems irremediable. The urgent deficiency bill is the only one of the fourteen general supply measures that has become a law.

The situation respecting appropriation bills is as follows:

The Indian, legislative, army and District of Columbia bills have passed both houses and are in conference. All of these bills contain items of dispute which present difficulties.

HEAVY WORK AHEAD.

The pensions, postoffice, agricultural, naval, military academy, fortifications, diplomatic and consular, and sundry civil bills have passed the House, but not the Senate.

The general deficiency bill has not yet come out of the House Committee on appropriations. There remain to be passed by the Senate, therefore, the pensions, postoffice, agricultural, naval, military academy, fortifications, diplomatic and consular, sundry civil and general deficiency bills.

If the Senate could devote the five and a half days left of the present session to the calendar and if speeches could be curtailed, Senators would not worry about the legislative situation. Notices already have been given of several speeches on pending measures. The faction, which supports Senator Lorimer, is determined that disposition shall be made of the Lorimer case at this session, but it is evident that anti-Lorimer forces will resist any attempt to take a vote before they are concluded their arguments.

The McCall bill, to carry out the provisions of the Canadian reciprocity agreement, is on the calendar and Senator Hale and others, opposed to the agreement, have made it clear that if they do not intend that any prior action shall be given to it, because of the interest of President Taft or for any other reason. It is perfectly clear that a vote can be prevented on the McCall bill, without resort to a filibuster.

RECIPROCITY OPPOSITION.

The only way a vote could be obtained on the measure would be the giving of assurance, by a poll, which could not be counted, that there were votes enough to defeat it.

The informal polls that have been taken have disclosed that a majority of the Senate would vote to enact the bill. There are several Democrats who oppose the measure and an effort was made yesterday to obtain promises from seven others of the minority to stand with the Republican majority against the measure. This effort failed, but it may be renewed at any time.

The Canadian bill has no champion in the Senate and this fact seems to preclude any possibility of bringing it to a vote. Senate and House leaders have become reconciled to the idea of an extraordinary session and there is little doubt that one will be called by President Taft and that it will be convened on April 4.

FISTIC THREATS AGAINST HAMER.

IDAHO REPRESENTATIVE COMES NEAR TO BEATING.

Attacked Saturday Night, He Claims, by Private Secretaries of Several Eastern Congressmen. Alleges Assailants Were Drunk and Picked Row Without Grounds.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Representative Hamer of Idaho was set upon last night in the office building of the House of Representatives by several private secretaries to eastern Congressmen, and barely escaped a beating at their hands. Just how the trouble started seems to be in doubt. Hamer alleges his assailants were drunk and attacked him without provocation.

The secretaries declare Hamer bumped into them, and then held them responsible for the collision. However, no blows were exchanged, and no one was injured. One of the secretaries was E. D. Glavis, a brother of L. R. Glavis, attorney for Gifford Pinchot, and during the fracas it is said he threatened to "do Hamer up." However, he did not carry out the threat, for a crowd collected and separated the disputants.

Hamer has not decided whether to demand the punishment of his assailants or not.

FOREST FIRES COSTLY.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The great forest fires of last fall cost the government $1,050,000 for the actual expenses of fighting the flames, according to statements made by Secretary Wilson, of the Department of Agriculture, before the House Appropriation Committee. The government provided only $135,000 last year for fighting forest fires. The cost in the northwest during the disasters of 1910 were so heavy that it has been necessary to ask for $915,000 more to make up for the great expense

"She is not welcome in my house until she gives up the man she married against her parents' wishes," he said. "I have not seen nor heard from her since her marriage and know nothing of her whereabouts. She had everything her heart could wish, and she gave it all for him, so now she can look out for herself." The marriage took place Feburary 2, but did not become known until today.

MANY COMPANIES MENACING.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SPRINGFIELD (Ill.) Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] More than five thousand Illinois corporations are threatened with the cancellation of their charters, for failure to comply with the act requiring them to make an annual report to the Secretary of State between the first day of February and the first day of March showing the location of their principal offices, kind of business engaged in, number and addresses of officers, etc. The act applies to all corporations, both foreign and domestic, except banks, building and loan associations and insurance companies, which report to other departments of State. It is probable that Secretary of State Rose will allow a few days' grace after next Tuesday, in which delinquents may save themselves, after which time actions will be instituted to cancel the charters of the corporations that have failed to meet the law's requirement.

JUDGE ENDS LONG CASE.

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After a jury trial lasting five weeks and an unsuccessful attempt of the jurors, during the twenty four hours deliberation, to reach a verdict, United States District Judge Albert L. Sanborn, of Madison, Wis., sitting in Chicago, brought the prosecution of William N. Smith to a conclusion at a Sabbath Day session today and directed an entry of not guilty for the defendant. Assistant United States District Attorney S. S. Shirer, who had charge of the government's case, immediately took exception, setting up the claim that failure on the part of the jury to agree constituted a mistrial. The case was one of a series against Smith in the last three years brought by persons holding stock in the San Luis Land and Cattle Company and the El Mais Sugar Plantation Company, both of Mexico.

SEARCHERS OUT FOR LOST LADS.

COLORADO YOUNGSTERS ARE ASTRAY IN ROYAL GORGE.

Caught in Blinding Blizzard Saturday Afternoon While on Hunt for Home of Ancient Cliff-Dwellers. Canyon City Business Men Send Out Well-Equipped Rescue Party.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CANYON CITY (Colo.) Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Thomas Jenkins, aged 26, and Eugene Hawkey, a schoolboy of 17, are lost in the mountains near Royal Gorge. A hundred or more men from Canyon City searched all night and today, but no trace of them has been found.

Two of their companions, Lyle Sullivan and Lowell Carter, each 14 years of age, became separated from the other two and, after terrible suffering, made their way home late last night.

The boys left here yesterday, to search for a cave recently reported to exist among the cliffs on the south side of the Arkansas River, in the Royal Gorge, about six miles west of this city, and which was thought to contain ruins of the ancient cliff-dwellers.

The boys, scaling the cliffs upwards for 2000 feet or more, reached the plateau high above the river. Sullivan and Carter went down a gulch leading to the Arkansas River while Jenkins and Hawkey, went down the Grape Creek Valley. A blinding snowstorm set in about this time and in the blizzard the boys could see scarcely ten feet ahead of them. Carter and Sullivan soon became separated, but both reached home.

A rescue party under the leadership of Sheriff Esser, started for the Royal Gorge shortly after midnight last night, and returned this morning. This morning a general alarm was given and several searching parties were organized. A party under the leadership of Clarence P. Smith, president of the Canyon City Business Men's Association, and H. F. Maddox, secretary of the association, left in a train for the Gorge, hoping to find some trace of the missing boys. They returned at dark tonight, without results.

The country where they were lost is the roughest and wildest in the State of Colorado.

MURDERERS HARD PRESSED.

Renegade Indians Attempt to Outstrip Pursuers and Gain Nevada Reservation—Battle Imminent.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ELKO (Nev.) Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] With two Sheriffs' posses within a few miles of them and the Indian police from the Duck Creek reservation closing in on them from the north and cowboys and miners from Tuscarora from the east, the capture of the murderous band of Shoshones, who brutally killed four cattlemen in nothern Washoe county last month, is only a matter of a few hours. Tidings of a battle are expected.

The redskins, pushing the starved and weakened horses to the verge of exhaustion, have reached the edge of Duck Creek reservation where they hope to lose their identity among their fellow Indians.

Saturday morning, the renegade Indians were reported about twelve miles from the reservation. They had an old Indian about three hours in advance and a young buck about three hours in the rear of the main band. The Indian police were ordered out today by the government agent on instructions from Washington.

BLIZZARD STOPS NEWS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TUSCORORA (Nev.) Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Owing to a howling blizzard, which has been raging since yesterday, no word has been received from the posses and Indian police in pursuit of the Shoshone outlaws, who murdered the four white ranchers. A battle was expected Saturday.

RECEPTION TO CALIFORNIANS.

Clarence Mackay Invited Congressional Delegation to Witness Production of California Opera.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Clarence Mack has invited the members of the California congressional delegation and their families to attend a reception in New York next Tuesday evening, given in honor of the California Society after the performance of Victor Herbert's grand opera "Natoma" at the Metropolitan Operahouse.

The opera, the scene of which is laid in California, was given a dress rehearsal at Philadelphia a few days ago and the critics say that after the second act, applause was frequent. The libretto is by Joseph D. Redding, the clubman, traveler and literateur of San Francisco.

The opera is in English and the leading role is played by Mary Garden.

As many of the California legislators as can get away will accept Mackay's invitation.

CUSTOMS INSPECTOR FIRED.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Chester M. Gibbons, a customs inspector at San Francisco, was discharged from the service today by the Treasury Department on the recommendation of Collector Stratton. The charge against Gibbons was dereliction of duty on a seizure of opium on the steamer Nippon. It was charged that Gibbons was found with ten cans of opium under his coat. His defense was that he was taking them to the customs house as a seizure.

A Reasonable Plea For the Stomach

If Your Stomach Is Lacking In Digestive Power, Why Not Help the Stomach Do Its Work—Especially When It Costs Nothing to Try?

Not with drugs, but with a reinforcement of digestive agents, such as are naturally at work in the stomach? Scientific analysis shows that digestion requires pepsin, nitrogenous ferments, and the secretion of hydrochloric acid. When your food fails to digest, it is proof positive that some of these agents are lacking in your digestive apparatus.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain nothing but these natural elements necessary to digestion and when placed at work in the weak stomach and small intestines, supply what these organs need. They stimulate the gastric glands and gradually bring the digestive organs back to their normal condition.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been subjected to critical chemical tests at home and abroad and are found to contain nothing but natural digestives.

Chemical Laboratory. Telegraphic address, "Diffindo," London. Telephone No. 11029 Central. 20 Cullum St., Fenchurch st., E. C.

London, 9th Aug., 1905.

I have analyzed most carefully a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets (which I bought myself at a city chemist's shop for the purpose), manufactured by the F. A. Stuart Co., 86 Clerkenwell Road, London, E. C., and have to report that I cannot find any trace of vegetable or mineral poisons. Knowing the ingredients of the tablets, I am of opinion that they are admirably adaptable for the purpose for which they are intended.

(Signed)

John R. Brooke, F. I. C., F. C. S.

There is no secret in the preparation of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Their composition is commonly known among physicians, as is shown by the recommendations of 40,000 licensed physicians in the United States and Canada. They are the most popular of all remedies for indigestion, dyspepsia, water brash, insomnia, loss of appetite, melancholia, constipation, dysentery and kindred diseases originating from improper dissolution and assimilation of foods, because they are thoroughly reliable and harmless to man or child.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are at once a safe and a powerful remedy, one grain of these tablets being strong enough (by test) to digest 3000 grains of steak, eggs and other foods. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest your food for you when your stomach can't.

Ask your druggist for a fifty cent package or send to us direct for a free trial sample package and you will be surprised at the result. F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

"Tenderfoot" Gives Battle When Mexican Gang, Mistaking Wagon for Stage Coach, Orders "Hands Up!"—Plucky Man Wounded, Directs Posse in Search for Outlaws.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO, Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Six Mexicans more than met their match in a "tenderfoot" from Arkansas, near Silver City, N. M.,

R. L. McLester was driving a team from Silver City to Mogollon, when a band of six bandits jumped from behind a boulder and ordered him to stand and deliver.

Instead, he jumped into a ditch on the opposite side of the road and began to fire from ambush on the holdup men, who had mistaken the big ranch wagon for the Mogollon stage. They scurried into the bushes at the roadside.

McLester says he is sure he hit three of the men if not more and believes he killed them. He ran to a nearby ranch house and secured a posse to go in search of the bandits.

The men were unable to discover any bodies, but a six-shooter, a mask and a "cholo's" hat were found at the side of the road. Four pools of blood indicated where the men had fallen.

The attempted hold-up occurred near the scene of a stage robbery of last summer, when bandits held up the Mogollon stage and secured silver and gold bullion bars valued at $25,000. They were never caught and it is thought that it is the same band that has resumed operations. McLester, who is a good shot, was wounded in the left shoulder by one of the desperadoes.

CHICAGO BOMBS UNIONITE WORK.

IROQUOIS IRON COMPANY PLANT BADLY DAMAGED.

Detectives Working on Case Find Evidence Tending to Implicate Laborite Agitators in Explosion and Arrests Are to Follow Soon. Windows Shattered Everywhere.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]
CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Arrests are planned shortly in connection with the explosion of two dynamite bombs in the Iroquois Iron Company's new $1,000,000 plant in course of construction at Ninety-second street and the Lake, in South Chicago.

Detectives worked on the case throughout the night and obtained evidence which satisfied them that the explosions were the result of union labor troubles. Suspicion fell on a number of unionite agitators.

The first explosion blew out a seven-foot fence for a distance of fully fifty feet on the west side of the plant. One of the watchmen of the plant was within one hundred feet of the falling palicade.

Windows were shattered in buildings for many blocks around and hundreds of persons were awakened by the detonation.

The crew of engine company 58, a fire boat, lying at Ninety-second street and the Calumet River, were thrown from their bunks by the force of the explosion. Fifteen minutes later, when the second explosion occurred, the fireman saw the flash of flames at the plant.

John Nelick, a repairman for fire department, who lives at Ninety-third street and Ewing avenue, telephoned to the Englewood fire alarm station of the explosion.

The damage caused by broken windows will amount to several thousand dollars. Hundreds of panes of glass were shattered in the car barns of the Calumet Electric Company at Ninety-third street and Ewing avenue. A number of men standing in neighboring saloons and other places were thrown from their feet.

JILTED PASTOR LONG MISSING.

SPOKANE CLERIC TAKES TO THE TALL UNCUT.

Crowd Assembles at Church, Best Man Ready, Bridesmaids on Hand, Fiancee Gets Cold Feet and Fails to Appear—Humiliated Minister Hasn't Been Seen Since.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]
SPOKANE (Wash.) Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Constant search for a week, made by members of Rev. F. I. Reichle's congregation at the German Baptist Church here, for the pastor, who is missing, has proved unavailing, though many clues have been followed out.

Reichle suddenly disappeared from Spokane, following a disappointment in a love affair with Miss Christina Lexa, a young member of his church. They were to have been wed a week ago last night. All arrangements had been made, the crowd assembled at the church, the bridesmaids, flower girls and best man were waiting, when Miss Lexa notified them she was ill and must postpone the nuptials.

It was learned next day that she had changed her mind, saying she did not love the minister. Rev. Reichle at once disappeared. Many fear he has become demented or may take his life, as he was infatuated with the girl.

SHOT DOWN AT CHRISTENING.

Portland Italian Mysteriously Wounded, Possibly Fatally, With Half a Hundred People Near-by.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
PORTLAND (Or.) Feb. 26.—During a christening in this city today and within fifty feet of a half hundred guests, Dominic Bonnelli was mysteriously shot and probably fatally injured. In the midst of the ceremony two revolver shots rang out, and shortly afterward Bonnelli was found on a back porch with two bullet wounds. The assassin had disappeared.

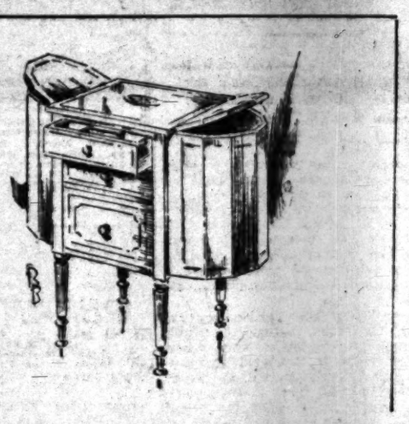
Federal Prisoners Go to Northern Penitentiary Hereafter Instead of to Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]
TACOMA (Wash.) Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The first Federal prisoners sentenced to McNeil's Island from California arrived in Tacoma today in custody of Deputy Marshals Kiernan and Arnerich of San Francisco.

Hereafter, Federal prisoners sentenced in California to a year and a day or more will be brought North to McNeils Island Prison, ten miles from Tacoma, formerly such California convicts served their terms at Leavenworth, Kan.

The new system went into effect recently. The prisoners in the first batch are: Edward Peterson, alias Harry Randal, seven years; Harry Cecil Tarrantts, twenty months; Peter Bauers, one year. All were convicted of attempting to pass counterfeit money. Peterson is an old San Joaquin convict.

A Store for Lovers of Fine Furniture.



—In our illustration above is shown one of the most interesting mahogany sewing tables in our extensive display—an exact reproduction of one originally belonging to Lady Washington, which is now in the possession of her great-grandniece, Mrs. Lewis. Aside from its historic interest, this table has much to commend it to lovers of fine furniture; note in the illustration the deep pockets at either side, and the conveniently arranged drawers for the different needlework appointments; note the dainty inlay lines, also the graceful, symmetrical design, as a whole. In quality—in the selection of the beautiful Cuban mahogany of which this table is built—and in the splendid manner in which it is finished, in its interior part, as well as exterior, it is an example of perfect cabinet work.

—And this is but one of the many beautiful tables in great variety which may be seen in our splendid stock. Visitors are cordially welcome—always without obligation to purchase.

gram called police authorities from shore.

Stewards and stewardesses were questioned closely, and their clothing and belongings searched, and when the detectives arrived there were quiet inquiries among the 138 first-cabin passengers aboard.

As not a clue was developed, however, the customs authorities were appealed to and under guise of baggage inspection, every one's luggage was sifted thoroughly, but so far as could be learned not even a suspicion was formed.

Mrs. Drummond could give no hint which would aid the authorities, but she believes the stateroom door was left unlocked during the night. Under such circumstances, it would have been possible for a thief to enter the apartment while the occupants slept.

The customs men made it a point to examine carefully the baggage and personal belongings of not only the first-cabin passengers, but of the 300 men and women in the second cabin. No one was detained, even temporarily, however, and the police must now extend their search to pawnshops.

VICTIM WEALTHY.

Mrs. Drummond was Miss Albertina Huck, daughter of Louis C. Huck of Chicago. Her first husband was Marshall Field, Jr., son of the Chicago millionaire merchant. The son died in 1905, of a gunshot wound.

By her first husband, she is the mother of two children, for whom their grandfather created at his death, an immense trust fund composed of the bulk of his fortune. Mrs. Drummond herself received the income from a fund of $1,000,000, set aside for that purpose in the will of Marshall Field, Sr., and is said to have, besides, a personal fortune of $500,000.

After her husband's death, young Mrs. Field was a frequent guest in London of her sister-in-law, the wife of Admiral David Beatty of the British navy, formerly Ethel Field, daughter of Marshall Field, Sr. While there, she met her present husband, Maldwin Drummond, member of a wealthy English family and well known as a sportsman. The marriage took place a year ago last September in London.

CAPTAIN'S STATEMENT.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
WASHINGTON, Feb. 26. — When Capt. Knuth of the Amerika was asked for an opinion regarding the theft of Mrs. Drummond's jewels, he said:

"The Amerika has a safe, which is supposed to be the depository for just such valuables as the ones stolen. Under the present circumstances, I do not think that we are responsible."

It was recalled tonight that Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, also of Chicago, missed valuables worth $15,000 while on the Cunard liner Saxonia, when a passenger last January. A suit seeking to establish the company's liability is pending.

LONG-RANGE METEOROGRAPH.

Device Recently Installed at Summit of Mt. Rose, Far Above Lake Tahoe, Proves Its Value.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]
RENO (Nev.) Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A long range meteorograph, the first successful automatic weather recorder installed either among the Alps or on the mountains of America, designed by Prof. S. P. Furgesson, assistant director of the Mt. Rose Observatory, has been found to have stood the severe test of the recent storms, which have hovered about Mt. Rose, above Lake Tahoe, in the Sierra Nevada Mountains.

Mt. Rose is 10,800 feet above sea level, and on the summit of the mountain an observatory has been established. Dr. J. E. Church, of the University of Nevada, has charge of the station, and he has just returned with Arthur Smith from a trip to the observatory on the summit. Snow to a height of twenty-five feet was encountered.

Prof. Forgesson's instrument is expected to prove invaluable. With aid of this instrument studies will now be made of the effect of weather at high altitudes and the weather in the valleys below with the special view of forecasting the occurence of frost. Two duplicate instruments have already been installed this winter, one at Truckee and the other at Fallon, to complete the requisite series of stations.

SLOPE COAL MAKES GOOD.

Secret Test of Fuel on Battleships Develops Superiority of Western Article Over Eastern.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]
TACOMA, Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Despite great secrecy maintained by commanding officers, information has reached Sound shipping men that at least one great test of Pacific Coast and eastern coals made by the cruisers Maryland and West Virginia has resulted in favor of western fuel.

This test was made several weeks ago on a trial between San Francisco and San Diego. When both warships were driven at twenty knots speed, Pacific coal used on the Maryland is said to have passed by a fair margin the 80 per cent. minimum limit fixed by the department.

Thorourg tests of Coast coals, chiefly these produced adjacent to Puget Sound, are being made. Since California oil is replacing Puget Sound coal in many industries, it will be a matter of great satisfaction if government warships can use coal mined in this State. There seems no doubt that in future years Alaska coal of satisfactory grade will be available for this purpose.

The Maryland is now loading 2700 tons, comprising three different kinds of Sound coals and the West Virgina is loading at Bremerton 1800 tons of eastern coal for further tests to be made on Puget Sound this week.

ROTHSCHILD'S YACHT SAFE.

Goes Ashore Near Cape San Antonio, Cuba, But Is Pulled Off and Proceeds on Way to Havana.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
CAPE SAN ANTONIO (Cuba) Feb. 26.—The yacht Almah, with Baron de Rothschild and party aboard, was pulled off the beach at 3 o'clock this afternoon by the Steamer Coama Herrera. An English tramp steamer was paid 600 pounds sterling to stand by and take off passengers in case the Almah broke up. As soon as cleared, the Almah headed southward, presumably for Havana.

40 Acres You Want
Well Located and CHEAP
Here is a fine forty-acre tract of land near Fresno. Just the thing for the man with a little cash. The land is level and the soil is rich and deep, with abundant cheap ditch and pump water. You couldn't ask for a better alfalfa proposition—and alfalfa, as you know, is a quick money-maker. Located close to town, with schools, stores, and all conveniences—a pleasant place to live. This land is now planted to barley, and the crop goes with the land. Convenient to two railroads. You can buy it for only $100 an acre, and very little cash swings the deal. NEW OFFICERS ARE SELECTED.

County Endeavor Convention Comes to a Close.

Most Successful Meeting in History of Order.

Los Angeles Is Favored for International Event.

(Office of The Times, 36 S. Raymond avenue.)

PASADENA, Feb. 27.—The most successful convention held by the Christian Endeavor Society in Southern California was the nineteenth annual convention of the Los Angeles County Christian Endeavor which closed last night at the Pasadena Presbyterian Church. The total registration of delegates for the convention, as announced by the registrar last night, was one thousand.

By a unanimous vote the convention endorsed Los Angeles for the Twenty-sixth International Christian Endeavor Convention in 1912. This is the convention of all the Christian Endeavor Societies of the United States which meets this year for its twenty-fifth convention in Atlantic City, July 6 to 12. The convention is usually attended by from 50,000 to 75,000 delegates from all parts of the country. The advantages of Los Angeles for a convention city were presented by Leonard Merrill of Los Angeles representing the Los Angeles Convention League and the delegation from Southern California was instructed to work for Los Angeles for 1912. He pledged the necessary $15,000 for the expenses of the convention.

Whittier was selected for the next convention city for the Los Angeles County Societies which will be held in March, 1912. The officers for the next year installed last night by Paul C. Edwards, State secretary, were R. S. Small of Los Angeles, president; F. A. McBurney of Hollywood, first vice-president; William Huff, second vice-president; J. L. Ross of Los Angeles, secretary; Miss Pearl Miller of Pasadena, treasurer; Miss Edith M. Cutler, Los Angeles, intermediate superintendent; Miss Helen Weightman of Los Angeles, junior superintendent; Miss Elsie Thomas, Pasadena, assistant junior superintendent; Miss Lola Taybor of Whittier, missionary superintendent; Mrs. E. R. Hudson of Los Angeles, hospital superintendent; Frank Young, evangelist; Rolf Bryan of Los Angeles, floating superintendent; F. D. R. Meets of Sierra Madre, christian citizenship; Frank Higgins of Los Angeles, tenth legion; T. C. Burnside, Pasadena, press superintendent; Miss Mabel Forbes, Pasadena, quiet hour; Miss Amy P. Gordon, Los Angeles, assistant quiet hour.

WATER HUNTERS RETURN.

The Additional Water Supply Subcommittee of the Board of Trade Water Committee, composed of J. B. Coulston, T. D. Allin, W. S. Harbert and E. P. Scattergood returned yesterday morning from Victorville on the Mojave Desert, where they went Saturday morning to look into the proposition of bringing water from the Mojave River at Victorville to Pasadena. The promoters of the scheme have stated that they can easily bring a supply of water to Pasadena through tunnels and open ditches which will be as large as desired. The distance is about 110 miles, but no figures have been given out as to what the water will cost Pasadena, except that the total cost of the dam, tunnels and aqueducts will be about $6,000,000. The proposed dam will be built at Victorville, and according to the figures of the promoters' engineers, the dam itself will be 150 feet high and will form a reservoir ten miles square, enclosing thirty square miles of territory; will hold 375,000 acre feet of water, or 7000 miner's inches, continuous flow. There would be eighteen miles of tunnels.

NO MORE BUTTERFLIES.

The members of the Additional Water Supply Subcommittee feel they have now completed their campaign of investigating every conceivable water supply. They were instructed to go carefully into the merits of every proposition offered except the Owens River supply, the investigation of which proposition was given to another committee. The first inspection trip was made to The Narrows, where the city owns a couple of small tracts of land bought several years ago because they are water-bearing lands.

Two trips were made to the Big Tujunga basin, the old "joker" which has been brought up whenever water talk has reached the boiling point for the past twenty years. One trip was made to the upper Tujunga and the other trip to the lower Tujunga. The committee found water in that basin, but according to the rainfall records kept for the San Gabriel River for the past 15 years, it is doubtful if enough water can be dammed up to give Pasadena the supply which she should have.

Another project investigated was Big and Little Rock Creeks, over back of Old Baldy. This proposition looks pretty good to the committee, but as one of them stated, "Whether the water will cost us too much to justify the expenditure is a serious question. That is a matter which would have to be thoroughly worked out, and the cost would probably be very large. There is also some doubt as to the quantity of water which could be procured."

KNIGHT HONORED.

William F. Knight, member of the Board of Education, ex-president of the Annandale Country Club, formerly prominent in civic affairs in Providence, R. I., popular clubman and general good fellow, received word yesterday that he has just been appointed a member of the Publicity Committee of the Aero Club of America, the honor coming to him as a prominent member and director of the Aero Club of Pasadena.

WILL DECIDE THIS WEEK.

The Board of Education will hold a meeting this week, at which the matter of calling a bond election to provide money to buy a site and build a new High School will be taken up. One thing which has bothered the Board of Education is whether to ask for enough money to finish the job at one election or whether to divide the expenditure, probably three elections. The latter idea is favored by many. At any rate the members of the Board of Education believe the time is now ripe for another bond election because, at best, the new building could not be ready for a year and a half.

The Valley Hunt Club entertainment this winter has brought out so large a club representation as that of Saturday evening when Sydney Grundy's amusing farce "The Prince of Liars," was cleverly given by club talent. An audience of 350 club members and their non-resident friends gave an enthusiastic reception to the admirable presentation of a comedy full of ridiculous situations and bright dialogue. The leading role, Arthur Hummington—a young married man, who during his wife's absence gets into trouble and becomes the prince of liars in his endeavor to escape the vigilance of an inquisitive, managing mother-in-law, was admirably filled by Walter H. Lutz. The part of Ralph Ormered, Humington's artist friend and victim, was well taken by Harold Dale. Mrs. Thomas Snowdon Tompkins, made an envitable reputation for histrionic ability in her portrayal of the suspicious mother-in-law; Mrs. William St. John Ranney played the part of the confiding wife with ease and grace and looked uncommonly attractive in her smart frocks; Miss Madeline Binckley was charming as the ingenue, displaying dramatic talent far above the average amateur, and the laurels of the evening fell to Miss Marjorie Sinclair, who as a sophisticated variety actress, captivated the audience and scored a great success.

The minor parts of the butler and maid were capably filled by John W. Edminson and Mrs. Walter H. Lutz, who was especially charming. Clarence Gamble as the sporty young son of Mrs. Gillibrand did good work in a rather trying part. Music was furnished by Compton's orchestra and the performers were well coached for the play by Mr Eagan of Eagan's Dramatic School, Los Angeles. After the play refreshments were served and dancing followed.

Mrs. Arthur Henry Woodward of Altadena entertained at bridge Saturday afternoon, assisted by her sister, Mrs. J. C. Trask. Tables were arranged for sixty guests and the prizes were won by Mmes. D. H. Girouard, Robert Gardner Neustadt, Jesse Hoyt Smith and Jacob J. Manser.

The Times regularly prints more "Liner" advertisements than the aggregate number printed in all the other Los Angeles papers.

SLASHED BY AN ANGRY MEXICAN.

YOUNG WHITE MAN RECEIVES PROBABLY FATAL WOUNDS.

Man Who Did the Cutting Escapes, But Is Captured by an Officer After a Chase of Several Miles. Affair Is Alleged to Be Over a Woman.

POMONA, Feb. 26.—William Walker engaged in a fight with a group of Mexicans tonight and one of them, a man named Jumenz, stabbed Walker twice, probably fatally wounding him.

One wound is near the heart and the other was a wicked thrust into the abdomen.

The man who did the stabbing disappeared but was caught b ythe Constable after a chase of several miles.

Walker was conveyed to his home on South Hamilton street in an unconscious condition and little hope is expressed for his recovery.

He is married to a pretty Mexican girl and has three children. Mexicans who were present and some of whom participated in the affray, intimate that the fight was over some woman though the name of the woman involved could not be drawn from the noncommittal sons of Mexico.

WATER BONDS APPROVED.

Lordsburg Issue Meets Legal Requirements and New Municipal System Will Be Built.

LORDSBURG, Feb. 26.—Word was received today from the attorneys in Los Angeles that the bond issue for the Lordsburg municipal waterworks had been approved, so that work will be started in a very few days to install a complete water plant, from digging the wells, building reservoir and pumping house, laying new pipes, fire hydrants, and every detail of the entire system. Not a thing connected with the old waterworks will be used in the new system.

GAS COMPETITION.

Two gas companies are now bidding for Lordsburg trade, and the probabilities are that one or both companies will have gas mains laid here inside of the next four months.

CORNERSTONE CEREMONIES.

The cornerstone of the new Methodist Church will be laid with appropriate ceremonies Sunday afternoon, March 5. Dr. Matt. S. Hughes of Pasadena will officiate. Work on the new building has been retarded on account of so much rain but the building is so far advanced that the ceremonies incident to the cornerstone laying need not be postponed.

FAVOR SPECIALIZATION.

A movement is on foot, backed by the Board of Trade, to specialize the business houses of Lordsburg. The business men favor the idea, and already considerable has been accomplished along that line. The outcome of the movement is to enable the merchants to carry fewer lines and larger stocks, and thus keep more trade at home than at present, where the stores are carrying small stocks of a great many lines.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Dr. Matt S. Hughes of Pasadena lectured to a large and enthusiastic audience at the college auditorium Monday evening.

The packing-houses here are working to their limit now, giving employment to many people and shipping numbers of cars of fruit daily.

WATER RATES CONSIDERED.

STRAND DWELLERS INSIST ON REDUCTION IN PRICE.

Companies Respond With Claim That no Money Is Being Made Under Present Schedules and Talk Is Rife That a Municipal Water Plant Is Now Necessary.

LONG BEACH, Feb. 26.—The principal topic of discussion during the coming week will be the pending water rate ordinance. There is a general expression of opinion that the existing rates are too high and when the question of a new ordinance came up the Council intimated that the people might expect a reduction of about 20 or 30 per cent. Since then some of the members seem to have undergone a change of heart and the ordinance presented last Friday night was a disappointment and the big crowd of citizens in the lobby were not a bit backward in charging bad faith on the part of some one.

The new ordinance provides for reductions in minor cases but for the small property owner the rate remains the same and in some instances, it is charged, is higher. Warning was given that unless a fair reduction was made the people would lose no time in providing for municipal water.

The companies' representatives claim that their present income is not profitable and that the rates should be higher. A lively time is anticipated Friday night, when the matter comes before the Council for a final vote. Under a ruling of the Supreme Court it is contended that the matter of fixing rates is mandatory upon the Council and that the Mayor has no power to veto. Mayor Windham has always held that the present rate is excessive and has vetoed one ordinance. Now, however, the people are afraid his hands will be tied by the decision and therefore every influence will be brought to bear upon the members of the Council to secure the reduction demanded.

WAIT FOR SHIP.

Capt. K. A. Ahlin, and First Officer Richard Moran of San Francisco, who are to have charge of the new steamer Navajo, now building at the Craig plant, are in the city and will remain until the launching and completion of the vessel, which will be some time next month.

NEWS BREVITIES.

On Wednesday, of this week, City Clerk Boynton, who is also City Assessor, will start a force of field deputies to secure valuations for the coming year taxes. Five men will take the field: Louis C. Kading, W. R. Shaw, George W. Perry, Alonzo Leachman, W. H. Hatch, and J. R. Meader, whose appointments have been approved by the Council.

Long Beach Federation of the W.C.T.U., has elected as officers Miss Ella Howard, president; Mrs. J. W. Robinson, vice-president; Mrs. E. M. Ewing, corresponding secretary; Mrs. C. P. Bruce, recording secretary; Mrs. Flora Klecker, treasurer.

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Jennie A. Reeve, who died suddenly Friday morning, will be held tomorrow afternoon, at the residence on Cedar avenue.

Merle Fisher, son of Prof. Fisher of Temple street school, while riding on his bicycle this morning, towed by his chum on a motorcycle, was thrown to the pavement by the swerving of the bicycle and rendered unconscious for an hour. His head is cut and bruised and there was fear of a slight concussion but late this evening, it was reported that the lad was recovering.

Howard W. Brophy, son of O. M. Brophy of Berkeley, died this morning at his home on East First street. Young Brophy, who was in his 21st year, was a student at Berkeley until a year ago when failing health caused an abandonment of his studies, and he came here in search of rest and health. Last week, he took a turn for the worse and from that time sank gradually.

Mrs. Bertha G. Gray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William O'Brien, died last night in Los Angeles, and her body was brought here today for burial.

SEWER QUESTION TO SETTLE.

South Pasadena Chamber of Commerce to Take Up Vital City Matter at Thursday's Meeting.

SOUTH PASADENA, Feb. 26.—Interest in this city is centering around the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce to be held Thursday evening of this week, at which many prominent questions of civic importance will be discussed. Chief among these will be the sewer question.

Many suggestions for the solution of the big question have been received by the members of the Chamber, and these will all be brought out at the meeting, and it is believed that a resolution will be drawn up to be sent to the Board of City Trustees.

It is stated that one of the City Trustees has made a purchase of a large tract of ground, which he believes is just what the city wants, working along the idea brought out by the City Engineer not long ago. Its location and advantage as a sewer farm will be brought before the City Trustees tomorrow evening.

ANNUAL EVENT.

The annual fellowship meeting, at which a reception was tendered the members was held at the Methodist Church, in the Auditorium and League rooms. The rooms had been decorated with festoons of asparagus plumosus and quantities of calla lilies for the occasion.

Short addresses were listened to from the pastor, Rev. Officers of Steamer Curacao Report Unrest Among the Merchants—Will Not Go South Again Soon.

SAN PEDRO, Feb. 26.—Officers of the steamer Curacao, which arrived here this morning from West Mexican coast ports, report everything quiet at Ensenada and Guaymas, although the towns are heavily garrisoned by Federal troops. Business, however, is stagnant and a feeling of unrest exists among many merchants along the Coast.

The Curacao brought as passengers five Chinese merchants who have sold out rather extensive interests at Ensenada and are on their way to San Francisco, where they will take steamer for China. It is probable the Curacao will not make a southbound trip until affairs have become more settled in the southern republic.

Noted Arctic Navigator Plans to Drift With Ice Pack. Till Point Farthest North Is Finally Made.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

DENVER (Col.) Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Capt. Evelyn Briggs Baldwin, who discovered Graham Bell land in 1899, and who organized and commanded the Baldwin-Ziegler expedition to Franz Josef land in 1901-1902, makes public for the first time this morning his plans of an Arctic expedition he is organizing, to start about September, 1912.

The expedition will have aeroplanes and balloons as part of its equipment. The object will be to collect scientific data bearing on the meteorological, geographical and biological conditions of the Arctic region, and to complete the magnetic survey, now being made by the Carnegie Institute.

Capt. Baldwin says:

"What I propose to do is to start from a point about 150 miles north of Point Barrow. The ship will freeze in the pack, of course, but we shall use the ice itself as a ship on which we shall store supplies of wood, oil and our scientific equipment. We shall not move very far from the base of supplies. The drift of the pack will carry us, if not to the pole, at least very close to it, so that a side expedition to the pole from the base of supply would be an easy matter.

Impressive Funeral Services Conducted at Dallas (Tex.) Over Remains of Former Confederate General—All Military Organizations of City in the Procession.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

DALLAS, Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Impressive funeral ceremonies marked the funeral of Gen. W. L. Cabell, held at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. J. C. Muse, on North Pearl street this afternoon.

One company of infantry, one battery of artillery, the Sterling Price camp of Confederate Veterans, the two local camps of Sons of Veterans, the veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Spanish-American War veterans and State officers were in the procession.

Heading the procession was a platoon of mounted police, then followed a band, the military escort, the Confederate and Grand Army veterans and the clergy. Then came the bier, mounted on a caisson. This was followed by a riderless horse, symbolizing the death of a cavalry leader.

As a mute comment upon the passing of sectional strife, the colors of the North and the South were draped about the caisson, the stars and stripes of the reunited country mingling with the stars and bars of the Confederacy.

Gen. Cabell was a graduate of West Point and served in the United States army before he answered the call of his native Southland and gave his allegiance to the Confederacy. After the war his son, Duval Cabell, was sent to West Point and is now a captain

PAROLED TO DIE OUTSIDE OF PRISON

INDIANA GOVERNOR MERCIFUL TO AGED WOMAN.

After Serving Thirty Years of Life Sentence, Mary Ann Brown, Sent Up for Killing Husband, Is Permitted to Go to Spend Last Days With Her Daughter.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.) Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Sentenced to prison thirty years ago for the murder of her husband, Mary Ann Brown, sixty-five years of age was paroled today by Governor Marshall and has gone to Cleveland to live with a daughter who was only four years old when her father was murdered, and her mother aw sent to prison.

Mrs. Brown was released on recommendation of Miss Emily Rhoades, superintendent at the Indiana Women's Prison, the Governor taking the step because of the fact that Mrs. Brown recently had a partial stroke of paralysis and was declining rapidly. It is believed that her death is only a question of a short time, and the motive back of the release was to permit her to die outside the walls of a prison.

She was setenced to prison for life in the Marion Criminal Court January 12, 1881, John Wade who, according to a letter from Judge Hill, who presided over the criminal court during the trial, was equally guilty of the murder was also sentenced to life imprisonment, but was paroled by Gov. Matthews.

The Governor's order paroling Mrs. Brown was under an agreement that she be cared for by her daughter and son-in-law and that the parole would be revoked in case she became a public charge. Mrs. Brown, it is said, was a very pretty woman at the time of the murder, thirty years ago, and she still retains traces of her former good looks.

his home at Barstow today. McShane had been working in an untimbered shaft. The recent rains had soaked up the earth, which suddenly toppled upon him. GALLANT GULLED.

William C. Rooney, painter and decorator of Riverside, who says he is a Building Trades Council delegate, here, complained to the police today that he had been waylaid by a Mexican and robbed of his watch and $10. He says he came to San Bernardino for a "good time," and the Mexican invited him to see two girls. He followed his compainion to Meadowbrook park, where the erstwhile friend suddenly turned robber. From Rooney's statement that he is a delegate to the Building Trades Council it is presumed he represents the unions of Riverside, who have recently announced a strike.

Today Miss Myrtle Aldridge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Aldridge, was married to Wesley Kinett of Los Angeles. The ceremony occured at the Re-organized Church of Jesus Christ, Latter Day Saints. Rev. Charles Crumley officiating.

The minimum lawn rate was reduced from $1.50 a month to $1.40, the minimum for every additional hundred feet of lawn (to one lot,) was reduced from $1. to ninety cents, water per month for domestic use of family of not more than five persons, was reduced from $1 to ninety cents, water for use of families or toilets, was increased from 25 to 35 cents per month, and the acreage rate to alfalfa raisers was increased from $9 per acre, a year, to $9.50, with the periods of irrigation during hot weather, shortened from six to five weeks.

The new ordinance providing for these changes in the rates passed to second reading, but there may be more changes made at the special meeting of the Council to be held Monday evening.

He was overpowered and was being led away when a number of Mexicans, some of whom were armed, advanced on the Americans and for a time a fight was in progress. Policemen H. R. Radcliff and Leonard Freshour of San Diego finally managed to restore quiet.

MARTIN'S COLORS LOWERED.

Wolfe Wins Pacific Coast Skating Championship Over Long-Distance Route—Loses in Short Distance.

Fred Wolfe captured the Pacific Coast roller skating championship for five miles when he defeated Fred Martin who holds the northern record at Palms rink yesterday, going the distance in 16 min. 38 2-5 seconds.

The match was the last of a series, including every distance from one to five miles. Martin won the one, two and three mile contest, but lost to the Los Angeles boy in the four and five mile races.

Four hundred spectators crowded the balconies at Palms Garden when the two speedsters started on the final jaunt of their schedule yesterday afternoon, and as Wolfe slowly increased the lead he had over his opponent toward the end of the long grind the crowd went wild with enthusiasm.

The fact that it was a case of Los Angeles against San Francisco added to the interest. Martin fell in the sixteenth lap of the fifth mile, but was practically beaten when the accident happened and Wolfe won with apparent ease.

Wolfe has challenged Martin to another series of one, two and three mile races as he says he can win from him in the short distances if he has another chance. He showed remarkable form during the last two matches, and his friends are willing to back him to defeat the northern skater so that it is likely the boys will have another chance to compete as soon as the matches can be arranged.

Joe Scheimo, the 5-year old mascot at the rink, skated an exhibition five laps in 1 min. 11 4-5 seconds just previous to the match between Martin and Wolfe.

Manager Browning is arranging for a twelve hour endurance race to be pulled off at the rink early in March. The entry list is to be opened for this race in a day or two. Already a number of the best local skaters have signified their intention of competing, and the $100 purse is expected to attract a large number of starters.

A Great Aid in the Dairy

Professor Dean's first advice to dairymen is—"Clean the pails, cans and separators thoroughly, at least once or twice a day."

Soap and water remove surface dirt but they do not thoroughly remove all the little germs which sour and taint the milk. The greatest of all cleansers is Gold Dust washing powder. It not only removes all the visible dirt and grease, but goes deep after every trace of impurity, and leaves the milk pails, cans and bottles really clean, wholesome and safe. Moreover, it does the work more quickly and easily than any other cleanser known.

CURED IN FIVE DAYS

Hernia, Piles, Fistula and Varicose Veins

DR. J. TILLOTSON, M.D.
Established 30 Years.

I am the only Specialist in Los Angeles who is sole owner of his office and equipment, who does not advertise a fictitious name and photograph. I publish my true photograph, correct name, personally conduct my office. I am the longest established, most successful and reliable, as medical credentials and press records prove. Imitation of my copyrighted announcement is an evidence that I am a bona fide Specialist. I make this statement that you will know you consult a Specialist, who does and treats patients personally. I possess skill and experience acquired in such a way that no other can share, and should not be classed with medical companies. Experience is the safe standard by which judgment may be valued, and it is unwise and expensive to embrace the statements of medical companies. It is impossible for a medical company to attend college. Companies have no diploma or license to practice medicine in California, or any other State. Medical companies usually are named after a doctor. A portrait, whose personality and identity are indefinite, is selected and published as the legitimate specialist of the office. Hired substitutes, ordinary doctors with questionable ability give consultation, examination and treatment.

A thorough investigation should be made by every ailing person as to the specialist he consults. Duty and destiny to self and those who depend upon you demand the best medical attention. I have the ability and can give you this service. I have always charged a very reasonable fee, so that my services may be obtained by any man who sincerely desires to be cured. I make no misleading statements or unbusinesslike propositions; neither do I desire to be particularly independent, and I would like to have you for a patient, if you will come to me on a strictly professional basis, and the inducements that I offer, which are my ability and thirty years' successful experience. Time-saving treatment and guarantee of cure of certain diseases.

NO MONEY REQUIRED TO COMMENCE TREATMENT. Many patients have no confidence in their doctor, because he demands pay before a cure has been effected, and there are many who have been misinformed about their condition, or through unsuccessful treatment have become skeptical and think there is no cure for them. I want an opportunity to treat such cases. It makes no difference about the financial part, as I accept pay for my services as benefits are derived, when I am satisfied the patient is reliable. Health is capital at interest. I will prove my ability to cure you before asking pay for my services.

WRITTEN GUARANTEE.

Dr. Tillotson's written guarantee means a cure or no pay for services. I guarantee to cure certain diseases or refund every dollar you have paid me for my services. My services cost you nothing unless I cure your Varicose Veins, Hernia, Piles, Fissures, Ulcerations, or any disease I guarantee to cure. My terms are reasonable and no more than you are willing and able to pay.

Many Cases Cured Permanently in One TREATMENT. Most Time-Saving, Most Natural, Most Safe. No Detention from Business, Family or Home. A Radical and Permanent Cure. No Pain. No Knife. No Chloroform. No Ether. No Poisons. No Loss of Blood. No Hypodermic Injections. No Cocaine. No Opium. No Morphine. No Suffering. No Hospital. No Operation. No Danger. No Death. No Chloride of Zinc. No Sloughing. Like Finding It.

LUCKY DAY FOR HOTEL CLERK.

HONESTY OF MANY YEARS AGO IS REWARDED.

Cousin of John D. Rockefeller, Guest at Local Hostelry, Remembers Face of Young Man Who Entrusted Him With Ten-Dollar Bill in Missouri Town.

Up to yesterday, Roy Jones, assistant room clerk at the Hollenbeck, didn't like to work on Sundays. Hereafter, he will work every Sunday in the year. It's his lucky day.

Eleven years ago, Roy lived in Independence, Mo. Two days before he left Independence to come here, he found a $10 bill in front of a store on the town square. Believing that its owner would make inquiry for it at the store, he went in and left it with the proprietor—one W. H. Rockefeller.

"Mr Rockefeller, I found this bill just outside of the entrance to your store. One of your customers has evidently dropped it and will probably call for it," said the young man.

"All right, my boy," replied Mr. Rockefeller. "If the person that lost it calls for it, it will give it to him, but if no one calls, it shall be yours."

Mr. Rockefeller put the lad's name in a little book, which he carried in his pocket. In three days, Roy was on his way to Los Angeles, having forgotten all about the money.

Yesterday, W. H. Rockefeller registered at the Hollenbeck from Holton, Kan. Roy assigned him to his room.

"Your face is familiar, young man. Where have I seen you before?"

"My name is Roy Jones."

"Did you ever live in Independence?"

"Yes, sir; I was born there."

Mr. Rockefeller drew a little book from his pocket, which was somewhat worn on the edges. He looked inside and there was the name of Roy Jones.

"Well, my boy, no one ever called for that $10 bill."

With this, he drew a gold piece from his pocket and handed it to the surprised youth, who then remembered the incident of eleven years ago.

Mr. Rockefeller is a cousin to John D. Rockefeller. He moved from Independence to Holton, several years ago, where he owns a large merchandise store, and a cattle ranch.

CORRECTION.

In the report headed "Growers Laud Big Land Show," on the twenty-first page, Part V, of The Sunday Times, an error occurred in running together two letters read before the meeting. Under the subhead, "Interesting Letters Read," the eight paragraph should have had this introduction:

Col. W. H. Holabird's letter was as follows: "After my lecture upon the State of California, with the aid of a few slides furnished by the Southern Pacific Company, I always had a crowd of from fifty to one hundred people gather 'round seeking information and all expressing a desire at some time to come to California to live." And so on to the end of his interesting letter.

Talking It Over.

LOVETT TO HEAR STATION PROJECT.

WILL HOLD TWO CONFERENCES WITH COMMITTEES.

Matter May Also Be Discussed at Chamber of Commerce Reception Tonight — Stillman's Presence With Party and Meeting With Ripley Appears Significant.

R. S. Lovett, head of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific Railroads, and his cabinet of executive officials, will leave Los Angeles tomorrow morning.

The programme today includes nothing of material interest save the proposed new passenger station, which is to be made the subject for consideration at two morning conferences with committees, and will perhaps be discussed at the public reception to be given the visitors at the Chamber of Commerce rooms tonight.

The Chamber of Commerce committee, of which F. W. Blanchard is chairman, will be received in the rooms of Judge Lovett at the Hotel Alexandria, at 10 o'clock. Later a committee of property owners will have a hearing.

It was merely coincidental that James Stillman and his son, J. H. Stillman, Jr., and Robert L. Gerry, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday morning. Stillman was formerly president of the National City Bank of New York, and is now chairman of the board of directors, president of the Second National Bank, and is a director in a score or more of important corporations, including the Union Pacific, Chicago & Alton, New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, several banks, and is a member of the board of managers of the Western Union.

Gerry is a son of Elbridge T. Gerry, and a descendant of Elbridge Gerry, Vice-President and one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. He is also a son-in-law of the late E. H. Hariman and, with Robert W. Goelet, who is with the Lovett party, is a director in some of the Harriman lines.

Goelet will have a story of adventure to tell his New York friends when he returns East, involving the shooting of two wild goats while at Catalina yesterday. One was killed at a distance of 600 yeards.

Stillman will pass today in San Diego visiting Lyman J. Gage, former Secretary of the Treasury, and will join the Lovett party tomorrow, and with them will be the guest of E. P. Ripley, president of the Santa Fe Railroad, at a luncheon at the Country Club at Santa Barbara, after which the entire party will leave for San Francisco.

With the exception of J. C. Stubbs, vice-president in charge of operation, the majority of the Lovett party remained at the Hotel Alexandria yesterday. Stubbs donned a frock coat and a silk hat of the latest style and started out with the purpose of hearing former Vice-President Fairbanks speak. But Stubbs was misdirected and, instead of going to the Temple Auditorium where Fairbanks was scheduled, he attended the First Methodist Church.

NARROW ESCAPE FOR FIRE CHIEF.

AUTO RAMMED BY INTERURBAN ON WAY TO BLAZE.

Swiftly Rounding Downtown Corner in Response to Alarm From Pacific Electric Building, Department Machine Is Splintered by Collision With Edendale Car.

Swinging at a fast clip around the the corner of Sixth and Los Angeles streets in response to a fire call in the rear of the Pacific Electric Building yesterday afternoon, the fire automobile bearing Chief Archibald Eley, was rammed by an interurban car and badly smashed. The occupants of the machine, Chief Eley and driver Newsetter, were uninjured though their escape was narrow.

The interurban, No. 929 of the Edendale line, northbound, was traveling at about ten miles an hour at the time of the collision. The close turn by the fire auto made it impossible for the driver of the latter to see the oncoming car until too late to avoid the crash. The two came together as the automobile crossed the tracks, broadside on to the fender, which rammed it squarely in the middle.

Though the rear wheels of the heavy machine were lifted clear of the ground and skidded several feet by the force of the impact, neither of the occupants were unseated. The auto was, however, so badly jammed that it could be released only by backing the car away from it.

The principal damage was to the woodwork and guards of the automobile. The latter were torn almost completely off, and the center of the tonneau splintered as though a cannonball had been fired through it. Fortunately the running gear was practically unhurt, and the big car was able to proceed on its own power.

The interurban suffered a very badly twisted fender and a considerably startled motorman. The latter brought his car to a stop within half a dozen feet of the point of collision, however, and is entirely relieved of blame by the fire chief for the accident.

The blaze to which Chief Eley was called was the result of some one throwing a lighted match or a cigar stub from one of the upper windows of the Pacific Electric Building. Several vanvas awnings caught fire and blazed merrily, a few windows were broken by the heat and a large crowd gathered, but the damage was slight. Including that to the street car and the fire auto it will probably not exceed $200.

"REGULAR" SOX PICK SQUABS.

Two Bungles in Third Inning Decide Final Score.

First Practice Game Is Fast and Snappy One.

Seven Pitchers Appear to Be in Good Condition.

Regulars, 3; Yannigans, 2.

Poor support to Arellanes in the first inning was all that prevented the Red Sox Squabs from being spanked to a frazzle by the Regulars yesterday in the first real exhibition ball game played by the Boston Americans at the Redondo Beach ball grounds.

A juggle by Purtell of a hot grounder, a passed ball a moment later by Kleinow and a swat to right by Yerkes made a run for the Squabs in the first five minutes of play. Although the Regulars used four heavers there was little more transpiring for the other fellows, except in the sixth when they got to Moser for three hits and one run.

About 600 fans saw the game and they witnessed a contest that the Coast League might pattern after for its own good. These big leaguers got through their eight and one half innings in 1h. 26m. and while there was nothing particularly brilliant about the game it was one that carried you with it by its speed.

None of the pitchers posed and all of the players ran in and out when changing their positions. The fielding was fast and snappy and as the batsmen were aching to hit the ball there was nothing to wait for but supper and they had to go to the hotel to get that.

Heine Wagner, the man with no fingers to speak of and those curled up, was the hero of the day in the fielding line. He is Mister Bosko, when it comes to eating grounders alive or dead and he does not stop to pick out the kind he eats either. The fellow that gets to first base before a ball that Wagner throws there should really begin to fly before he swipes at the ball. Wag figured in two lightening double plays but his other assist was only ordinary. In the third inning with Perry on first from his single and one out Eagle gave the hit and run sign and Perry dashed to second. The ball was hit hard at second but Wagner was there in time to get it and in a twinkling he had stepped on the bag and thrown the ball to first to complete the double. He had another

Policeman Picks Up Youth Who Faked Deaf and Dumb and Found Many Victims Among the Public.

A "Deaf and Dumb Boy's Appeal" was heard very audibly in the detective's office yesterday afternoon, when Herbert Hilke, about 19 years old, suddenly recovered his faculties and promised faithfully to reform if he was released.

The detectives had encountered many "deaf" boys lately, who were seeking an education, and they decided to hold Hilke. He will appear in Police Court this morning.

Hilke approached Patrolman Fitzgerald yesterday afternoon on Main street. He presented his card and held out his hand. The officer took both. The card stated that the bearer had lost both speech and hearing by a severe attack of fever and that he was trying to get funds to enable him to get a deaf and dumb education.

On the way to Central Station, the youth gave evidence of recovery from his recent loss. He was searched and it appeared that many persons had given him money on his false pretension.

RETIRED BANKER CLOSES HIS LIPS.

STILLMAN'S VISIT IS PARTLY BUSINESS, HE ADMITS.

Former President of Big New York Bank Has Large Holdings in California and Says He Is Looking After Them—Expects to See Ripley in Santa Barbara.

James Stillman, former president of the National City Bank of New York and director in about fifteen railroads, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday afternoon and registered at the Alexandria. He was accompanied by J. A. Stillman, his son, and R. L. Gerry, a holder of large realty interests in New York.

The party passed the afternoon sightseeing in an automobile. They visited the ranch of the late "Lucky" Baldwin at Santa Anita, after which they rode through Pasadena, returning to the Alexandria late in the afternoon.

Mr. Stillman refused to give out an interview in regard to the significance of his visit, declaring that he had never given an interview to the press in his life.

"I am out here partly on business and partly on pleasure," he said last night in his room. "I retired from active business two years ago, but I have large interests out here as well as in other parts of the country, and of course I am busy to the extent of looking after them."

LEAVES LOVE FOR LIBERTY.

From Wife's Sick Room Convict Leaps to Freedom.

Officers Grant His Plea to See New-Born Child.

While They Wait Outside the Door He Disappears.

Believing that Charles Cloud, an ex-convict, was subject to the same emotions as are other men, detectives yesterday allowed him to enter alone his wife's sick room so that he could see her and their baby before being taken who made sensational escape from police, yesterday. Is said to be dangerous man.

peared. Knight was overtaken and at the Central Police Station was identified as Joseph E. Mink, a man wanted by the police.

Cloud was traced to his Gardena home by Detectives Jones and Boyd Friday morning. In answer to their rap, Cloud himself opened the door. He motioned to the detectives to enter the house as quietly as possible.

"I know who you are and what you want and I will go with you willingly," he said, "if you will but wait a few hours until I can leave my wife. She's sick. It will kill her if you take me now and she learns of it."

"Then we will wait," the detectives said, and they seated themselves.

Hours passed. Light refreshment was given the detectives and they with Cloud munched at it hoping that they would soon be able to get away.

"IT'S A GIRL."

Shortly after midnight a physician emerged from the sick room and solemnly announced: "Mr. Cloud, it's a girl and she weighs 8½ pounds."

The detectives shook hands with Cloud, but regretfully informed him that he must return to jail. He readily acceded and was brought forthwith to the city.

"But, a few minutes after the key had been turned on him he called for the detectives.

"You have done the square thing by me," he said, "and I want you to know I appreciate it. Take me back to the house and I will return all the plunder I have stolen."

It was decided to take him. A few hours later they again entered the cozy little home. In secret hiding places, Cloud extracted piece after piece of stolen valuables until he declared it had all been produced.

The booty was tied up into a package but Cloud was not ready to go.

"Just one more little peek at the baby," he pleaded, "then you can take me."

"Go ahead, let him go in," one of the detectives said. "You can have five minutes," they told Cloud. The latter grasped their hands and thanked them effusively.

Then he passed into the sick room. Minute by minute, the time slipped by. At the end of the allotted period, the detectives snapped their watches shut and tapped lightly on the door.

The room was silent. They tapped harder but the door was not opened in answer. Finally the nurse was summoned. She entered the sick room and returned.

"He is not here," she said.

The detectives hurried outside. Beneath the window were the marks where his heels had dug deep into the soil but Cloud had gone. The window of the room above was open. The jump was fully fifteen feet but liberty called louder than the whimperings of the baby he had professed to love.

After listening to a full recital of the affair, Capt. Flammer remarked:

"This is just another case of the public suffering the consequences of the paroling of vicious and confirmed criminals instead of compelling them to serve their time and giving the public, temporarily at least, protection. The woman has my sympathy. Send out a description of the man."

SUFFRAGE "EASY" IN AMERICA.

MRS. WILKINSON SURPRISED BY ITS PROGRESS.

Sister of the Titled Decies Who Married Miss Vivien Gould Speaks of the Lack of Antagonism to the Movement for Votes for Women in This Country.

The Honorable Mrs. Wilkinson is a guest at the Alexandria. She came unattended by servants of any sort, a very plain little woman in a big black fur coat, a small black hat and an auto veil closely tied over that. Heavy steel-rimmed glasses, through which peered blue eyes, at first showed their annoyance when approached by a newspaper representative.

"I've been misquoted so many times, and there have been such ridiculous stories in a number of the papers, that I really don't feel as though I should have a word to say," declared the ardent English suffragette, sister of Lord Decies, who married Miss Vivien Gould not long ago, and wife of Col. George Wilkinson, former army officer and at present inspector of race courses for the English Jockey Club.

While looking through a large bundle of mail, advertisements and cards, which had arrived prior to her own coming, Mrs. Wilkinson allowed her curiosity to get the better of her in so far as she desired information as to what the local suffragettes were accomplishing.

"Really, in England we can't understand the fact that there is no great anti-suffrage movement here. It is impossible to realize that the women are getting what they want without fighting for it," she said.

"All through the United States I have come across this feeling, and, speaking with distinguished men, I have always been nonplussed by the fact that they agree perfectly in most instances with the women, that they feel the women should vote. I can't come to a perfect realization of the ease with which American women are

TO YOUNG FOLKS BISHOP SPEAKS.

Hundreds of Children Attend Missionary Rally.

Vivid Picture of Christian Work Abroad.

Pasteboard Banks to Hoard Little Offerings.

Children from the thirty-nine Sunday schools of Los Angeles diocese participated in the pre-lenten missionary rally at St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral yesterday afternoon.

Bishop Sanford of San Joaquin diocese made the address of the day. Others taking part in the services were Rev. D. T. Gilmore, Rev. Henderson Judd, Rev. L. G. Morris, president of the Sunday School Institute; Rev. S. ... Hibbard, Rev. E. L. Howe and Dean MacCormick. Missionary hymns were sung by a boy's surplice choir in which the congregation joined and an organ solo of golden register was offered by Ernest Douglas.

Lent begins Wednesday of this week was the occasion of the big rally was that the little people might be instructed in the cause of missions for which they will save their pennies, their nickles and their dimes from Wednesday until Easter morning.

At Sunday school yesterday morning each child was given a small pasteboard bank in which to put his savings.

EASTER FEAST.

Either on the morning or the afternoon of Easter Sunday every Episcopal Sunday-school will give an Easter feast as splendid and as happy as a Christmas service. Perhaps it will be more beautiful than a Christmas service because of so many of the bright flowers of spring will be in blossom that the decorations of the church altars will be like the breath of a sunny garden. At this feast the offering of the children will be counted and each Sunday school in the local diocese will try to have a larger sum than the rest.

Last year the Sunday-school Lenten offering from the Episcopal Sunday schools in Los Angeles county amounted to $1792.35. This year they will try to raise $2500. The Episcopal children of the United States gave the big sum of $150,000 to missions during the last Lenten season.

Bishop Sanford charmed the children with the gentel humor and clarity of his address to them. He told them a wonderful story about the Chinese and, when he had finished, both young people and old knew a great deal more about the strange land across the seas and its yellow inhabitants than they had known before.

He told them that the Chinese will not build doors leading directly into the narow chambers of their homes lest the evil spirits that everywhere fill the air should enter the houses and do harm to the persons living there. The Chinese fear evil spirits of the atmosphere as badly as the scientists of civilization fear microbes. In some way the Chinese long ago reached the conclusion that an evil spirit can only travel in a straight line, so the Chinese wall up the places where the doors ought to be and the evil spirits hit their heads against the walls and are killed.

It sometimes happens that one of these spirits will find an entrance to a house, just as a mosquito sometimes gets through screen doors. Then the evil spirit gives the children in that house the measles, mumps or whooping cough.

SICK CHINESE.

One time an old man who sold cigarettes on the streets for an entire month before he could make a profit of $1.25 was struck by two evil spirits right in the eyes. After this happened to him two white spots grew over the pupils and he could not see.

Other Chinamen who had kept their sight told him to go to the foreign doctors and sight told him to go to the foreign doctors in the next city. They called those white doctors "foreign devils." The old cigarette vender went to the white doctors and instead of being given ground snake skin, dried locust or powdered grasshopper wings, he was operated upon by a skilled surgeon and his sight was restored. Then the missionaries gave him wonderful glasses with which he could read like a child.

The old man thought it was a miracle and he was as grateful as he was amazed. One thing, however, made him sad.

"In all of my life time, I can never, never pay the doctors for what they did," he told them. "I could not in a whole year save even enough money to pay for your wonderful glasses."

The missionary smiled and told him that the little children in the United States had sent them money enough to buy a whole barrel of spectacles and that he must be good and happy and not think about the pay at all.

When the Los Angeles children were treated to this intimate glimpse of how missionary work is done, they could feel themselves taking an actual part in the happy work of helping the Chinese people and the result of this sense of partnership is certain to be seen when the pasteboard banks are opened Easter Sunday.

Yesterday was Bishop Sanford's first visit to Los Angeles since his consecration at San Francisco one month ago. Previous to that time he was secretary of the eighth division of Episcopal missions. He addressed the local Sunday-school rally one year ago and the children who heard him then remembered him with delight.

SAYS HE IS OUT OF POLITICS.

Former Governor Declines to Discuss the Freak Bills Passed by the Present State Legislature.

Former Gov. Gillett on his way to San Francisco from Arizona, where he has been for a few days on business matters, was at the Alexandria for a few hours yesterday, but refused to have anything to say on current political topics. The former Governor declared that when he quit the executive chair at Sacramento he quit politics.

"I am now practicing law and pay little attention to politics," said Mr. Gillett when asked to give his views on certain bills now before the present Legislature. "I have been so wrapped up in the law business that I am not competent to talk politics at all. I have been to Arizona on private business. He left last night for San Francisco.

DR. LOCKE.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH.

THE SPEED MANIA AND WHAT BECOMES OF THE MODERN ABSALOM, THE FAST YOUNG MAN.

On the subject, "Is it Fashionable to be Fast?" Dr. Charles Edward Locke yesterday delivered at the First Methodist Church, the third of a series of "Sermons about Men, for Men and for Women who Admire Noble Men." Using the text "Is the young man Absalom safe?" II Samuel 18:32. Dr. Locke said in part:

"The American Absalom's downward career begins with a rebellion against the restraints of law. Good laws are the young man's best defenses, but to him they are often regarded as obstructions to his libetry, and they irritate him. He loses his interest in religion because religion teaches self-denial, and patience, and faith, and gentleness, but to him self-indulgence, and restlessness, and doubt, and impetuosity, are more congenial. Loose habits and careless associations are mistaken by him for independence and influence. To him total abstinence is a lost art, good for women and old men. Instead of employing vigor and vivacity of youth in worink out life's noblest ideals, he finds all legitimate pursuits irksome and dull, and it is only in matters which involve his moral and spiritual nature that he invests the real impulses of his young manhood; and alas! alas! he soon develops the pace which kills.

"If there is a false and fatal principle extant today, it is that young men should sow wild oats. Is it well that a young man should drink, gamble, and let his feet take hold on hell? By no means. The man who does those things is never so noble as the man who grows up without such experiences. The man who ever encouraged a bad thought, read a bad book, or performed a bad deed is never the same as he would have been without it. A stain is left behind that can never be washed out. Hezkiah Butterworth had this idea in mind when he wrote his little poem 'But the bird with a broken pinion never soared so high again.' I make a plea for the American Absalom, that he may pass from his mother's apron strings into public living over the path of truth and holiness, and not by the highway of vice.

"It is fashionable to be fast. Many satanic sycobhants thrive on the extravagence and indulgence of the fast young man. Crime is licensed; there are open doors for wrongdoing everywhere; and the nervous energetic, frenzied, flattered young man, deceived into the notion that he can always hold the mastery over his tastes and appetites, rushes forward, applauded and feted by those who are to gain by his speedy downfall.

"What becomes of the fast young man? Look at authentic figures: Of 182 criminals whose ages were given, 165 were young men; of 53 murderers whose ages were given, 45 were young men. In 13 States, 67 per cent, of the inmates of prisons and penitentiaries, are young men. Unrestrained indulgence in evil leads unmistakably to direful criminality which the State, in self-defense, must punish with imprisonment and even death. Sin has its own inexorable penalties; as a man sows, so shall he reap, is a law which cannot be defied or annuled, by the combined armies and navies of the earth. I grant you, young men, that the world is in a conspiracy against you; I know that the pagan juggernaut has been put aside by an enlightened heathenism to be adopted by our boasted modern civilization, in the most cruel and diabolical invention of the drinking saloon with its infernal accessories. I know that the liquor business would disappear if it were not for young men. Oh, young men, rise up and slay this mighty giant! You have the number, you have the strength! boldly assert your rights, and Goliath will fall before you!"

MEMORIAL BAPTIST CHURCH.

WONDERFUL MOVEMENT ON, AND TIME IS NOT FAR DISTANT WHEN WAR WILL BE THING OF PAST.

At the Memorial Baptist Church yesterday Rev. C. C. Pierce, the retiring pastor, preached a sermon on "Peace." He said in part:

"It may seem almost superfluous for me to stand here in a Christian pulpit and preach a sermon on peace. None of us believe that a war would be a good thing for our country. We are not tired of the fruits of peace. We are not anxious to dress our fathers and brothers and lovers up in soldier clothes and send them across the world somewhere to become targets for hostile bullets. None of us delight in scenes of bloodshed and cruelty. Still I suppose there is need of cultivating the peace sentiment, else why should Mr. Carnegie give $10,000,000 to further the cause?

"The fact is a good deal needs to be said. It is amazing how many there are who still believe that war is a necessity, and equally amazing to notice how many there are who do not believe in it but who have no positive convictions upon the subject. The more people know about war the more they hate it. I was hot-headed when it came to the war with Spain, but I honor the memory of Mr. McKinley for trying to delay it as long as he did. He know what a terrible thing it was. He knew that war was hell, and he wanted to prevent it if posible.

"People who do not believe in war themselves are sometimes urged on by other people. Hobson at present seems to be trying to get a little notoriety by urging on two nations which honor, respect and love each other, to believe that a war is inevitable. If I could not get fame some other way I would rather die in obscurity.

"Then, too, there is a good deal of the fighting and military instinct remaining in our hearts. Our ancestors had to fight for about everything they possessed or retained, and we have not gotten over the feeling that if we want to enjoy life we have got to fight somebody. The thought of warfare is carried out into the industrial strife, and how men fight each other with dollars instead of with bullets.

"But a great change is on and it is for part to hasten forward the good work. A wonderful movement is on, and the time is not far distant when war is to be a thing of the past. The spirit of the age is one which enthrones intelligence, and relegates brutality and savage customs to the oblivion of a dead past. A man is no longer permitted to treat his horse with cruelty. Much less will men very much longer continue a piece of irrational insanity, which destroys human life by the wholesale. Twelve years ago when I came to this city, within a mile of where you now sit, cruel men and boys on the Sabbath day, used to find amusement in permitting savage dogs to tear innocent little rabbits in pieces. On that very spot, splendid buildings which shall house the treasures of art and science are now rising. This is typical of the age.

"Warfare is diametrically opposed to the spirit of Christianity. England, Germany, France, Russia, Turkey, Austria and Italy keep perpetually in arms withdrawn from useful occupations, and adding monstrous overwhelming and unbearable burdens to the overworked and underfed peasantry of these nations, nearly 4,000,000 strong and able-bodied men.

"It is high time that this monstrous thing, this unnameable cruelty, and awful evil be stopped and stopped forever, and it is for all true lovers of humanity to stand together to hasten on the time,

'When the war drums all are muffled,
and the battle flags are furled,
In the parliament of nations, the federation of the world.'"

At the close of the sermon Mr. Pierce took occasion to state that in leaving the active pastorate he was in no wise leaving the ministry, that he loved the church and the real things and the best things for which the church stands. He said he believed that God had given him a message to his fellowmen and to his age, and that he only expected to deliver that message more loudly and more widely than would be possible for him to do in a regular pastorate.

REV. W. E. TILROE.

BOYLE HEIGHTS M. E. CHURCH.

THE CROWD THAT FOLLOWS JESUS FOR HIS TEACHINGS AND LESSONS IT LEAVS FOR US.

Rev. W. E. Tilroe, D.D., of the Boyle Heights Methodist Episcopal Church, preached yesterday upon the democracy of Christianity. Taking as his text Matthew 5: 1-2, he said in part:

"Christianity is not an esoteric cult, a gospel for a select few, an inner, higher life for a spiritual aristocracy. It is native to the crowd. It is at home with the multitude. It is hopelessly democratic. Rich and poor, wise and foolish, all races and peoples, every age, sex and condition, may have their lot and part in these glad tidings. We do well to be of anxious mind when our success in soul winning is small. They that turn many to righteousness shall shine as the stars forever and ever.

"The larger lesson, however, is not that the Master found His crowd but what He did with it when He had it. There were times when the crowd left Him. He might rightly enough have been distressed not seldom at His loneliness. 'Will ye also go away,' was surely a low ebb of the tide. But the question is, having the crowd what was his deepest thought for their good. Evidently the masses are not an end in themselves. A crowd may follow a clown. Fashions are often silly. Neither is organism the end of religion.

"Possibly the college of apostles just inaugurated may stand for all the vast machinery we call the church. But Jesus never rested with anything organic. Neither was bodily welfare a large consideration. The diseased, tormented, palsied, insane and demoralized were healed of their distress, but good health in His crowd was with Jesus only a fair beginning. Seeing the multitudes He went up into a mountain and when He was set his disciples came unto Him and He opened His mouth and taught them.

"The great message for all Christendom is that neither a popular Christ, an organizing Christ, nor a healing Christ is the hope of the race. Popularity wanes and waxes and wanes. Organizations wither, vary, disintegrate. The bodily comfort of today vanishes in the anguish of tomorrow. The miracles of the Christ met little more than the need of a passing hour. There was another funeral for Lazarus. Only in the words of Jesus was there abiding spirit and life. In a world that leans upon the sword, that worships fame, that delights in beauty, that feeds on pleasure, Jesus risks the destroying of His gospel on its truth. He meets the multitude to teach them. 'In the beginning was the word and the word was with God and the word was God.'"

REV. H. J. WEAVER.

FIRST LUTHERAN CHURCH.

THE ORIGIN, JUSTIFICATION AND INTERPRETATION OF THE MODERN CONCEPTION OF LENT.

"The Lutheran Conception of Lent." was the subject by Rev. Herbert J. Weaver's sermon in the First Lutheran Church yesterday morning. He said in part:

"The reason for the observance of Lent is not a matter of law, but is to be found in the free promptings of a cultivated Christian conscience. To appoint a memorial of noteworthy events has always been a natural human impulse, and to have set times for certain Christian duties has been recognized as fitting and profitable.

"So deep was the effect of the commemoration of Christ's death, that one day was felt to be entirely too little time to devote to such a theme. Therefore Good Friday came to be preceded by a period set for prayer, repentance and fasting. This period was finally fixed as a forty days duration with reference to the time our Master had consecrated by His fasting in the wilderness.

"True to this ancient ideal of the early church, we recognize in this fast a 'heartfelt spiritual solemnity.' It is not to us a matter of fish on Friday, or abstaining from meats or drinks or rest from worldly amusements to gain more relish for them afterward. God wants rent hearts not rent garments; the sincere hunger of the soul, not abstaining from meats and drinks without the mourning of the heart over sin. He calls for self-denial and self-discipline in the sight of God, not assumed before men. The soul must get into the secret place with the Father and bear His scrutiny. It is not a matter of rules and indulgences, least all a matter of merit, but of heart searching and of spiritual renewal.

"This fast means deep and true recognition of sin, sincere and wholehearted turning unto God, prayer and communion with Him, and secret and intense supplication, fixing the heart on the heavenly treasures that are eternal and incorruptible, other worldliness, instead of worldliness, entering into the fellowship of His sufferings and as far as we may into a participation of His passion."

REV. W. L. TUCKER.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH.

THE INADEQUACY OF THE PSEUDO-CHRISTIAN SPIRIT THAT CANNOT LEAVE ITS WORLDLY GOODS.

Rev. W. Leon Tucker, at Calvary Baptist Church preached a third sermon of a series on "Missions, Men and Money" yesterday. His subject was "The Blair of the Stuff," treating which he said in part:

"What a lot of 'stuff' there must be in this world because so many are required to 'stay by it.' There must be heaps of it, as millions are now keeping watch over it. At the close of a great missionary presentation and plea have you ever heard the remark, 'That's all true, but somebody must stay by the stuff.' It is quite true that somebody must stay by the stuff but not everybody!

"We are constrained to believe the 'stuff' is a 'bluff.' It is the easy way to side track a distinct call to a missionary field. 'Staying by the stuff' is a subterfuge from duty. O, what a heap of stuff there must be, for there are so many hiding behind it! The devil keeps multitudes busy with the stuff while for the missionary fields there are no where near enough. If the multitudes hiding behind the 'stuff' would come out we would have enough, for back of the stuff there is many a mighty missionary. William Carey, Adoniram Judson and David Brainerd and multitudes of others all left the 'stuff' and there are others yet by the stuff, who in His name could do equal exploits.

"The 'stuff' 'bluff' is keeping many a man from the firmament of missionary distinction. They say again and again, 'Somebody must stay by the stuff' and they make the somebody large enough to include themselves! They see themselves within the somebody. Somebody looks bigger than everybody. The obligation of the average Christian in America to a lost world is expressed in Sis Hopkins' philosophy, thus: 'It aint no use of doin' nothin' for nobody who aint done nothin' for you.'

"The thing we 'stay by' is indeed 'stuff.' Anything held back which He desires 'laid down' is stuff and nothing but stuff. There is many a man staying by his gain but finds it loss. Many who think they are saving life, shall loose it. A pile of 'stuff' will hardly stand the test in the day when 'fire tries every man's work what sort it is.' Some are heaping to themselves gold, silver and precious stones to find it is but wood, hay and stubble. Come out from behind the stuff bluff!"

DR. BROUGHER.

TEMPLE BAPTIST CHURCH.

HAPPY IS THAT YOUNG MAN OR WOMAN WHO HAS A HOME LIFE WORTH REMEMBERING.

Last night at the Temple Baptist Church, Rev. Dr. Brougher spoke on the subject, "Dead Broke and Homesick." He based his sermon on the parable of the prodigal, and took for his text, "When he came to himself he said, How many hired servants of my father have bread enough and to spare, and I perish here with hunger." He said in part:

"This young man was 'dead broke' and homesick. He had gone away from home, and after a brief career of riotous living, had reached the end of his finances. He began to think. If we could only get our young people to think before they leave home—if they would only count the cost—there would not be so many afflicted by this malady, especially when it comes from a life misspent. The prodigal had gone into a far country, and had made a failure of life. There are several characteristics of his homesickness which I wish to notice.

"Happy is that young man or woman who has had a home life that is worth remembering. The prodigal no doubt had a good home, a good father and mother; and now, as he realizes his position of degradation, and has no one to care for him, his soul begins to cry out for home. He remembered the old farm. He could see the weary oxen coming home at eventide. He recalled the family circle gathered around the fire. Possibly he remembered the prayers of a father and mother, offered for the wanderer. He could not stand it. He must go home or die. How often young people leave home and go 'into a far country' to make their living, and do not count the cost.

"Frequently young people are irritated by the restraints at home; they want to be independent of the old folks; they set up their judgment against that of others; and they leave home to carry out their own plans.

"Some day the memory comes to them of a praying father and mother, and then they wish that they had not been so impudent or independent when they had the privilege of the kindly advice of their parents. Of course there are many young people who are compelled to be away from home to work, and the memory tonight of a beautiful home, with loving parents, brings to them the heartache.

"I think that God intended that we should be attached to our parents. They stand, in a way, as the representative of God to the soul, and no soul can ever be supremely happy and content away from God. We were not fashioned to be at home with sin. When we lack the comfort and advice of father and mother, we may find a substitute in the sweet comfort of Christ's presence ever with us. God waits and longs for every soul to come and be at home in Him."

REV. E. S. HODGIN.

FIRST UNITARIAN CHURCH.

CHARACTER IS MORE THAN EXTERNAL CONDUCT—MUST BE EXPRESSION OF INNER MOTIVE TO BE REAL.

Virtues cannot be cultivated by themselves, or for themselves. Thrift pursued as an end in itself becomes miserliness, courage becomes foolhardiness, caution becomes cowardice, sympathy sentimentality, manners foppery and modesty prudery. These things must lead the way to something higher, must serve as the means to something further on or we shall lose the thing we are seeking for.

"Real virtue cannot be taught in an abstract didactic manner. You cannot tell a person how much he must spend in order to avoid miserliness or how little to escape prodigality. You cannot tell one how far he must assert himself to avoid cowardice or how little to escape being a bully. The character or virtue in these acts depend upon the impulse back of them. Character is more than external conduct. That conduct must be the expression of an inner motive if it is to be real and vital.

"Just as one may study color and form and light and shade to the end of time and still never be able to make anything live on the canvas until he is filled with a passion that seizes upon this technical skill and finds expression through it, and may study and practice grammar and rhetoric for a life time and produce nothing worth reading until on fire with a message to his fellows, so one may study and practice all the virtues and still possess little real character and be of little real use in the world, unless he is filled with a mighty life purpose that marshals al these virtues to a certain end.

"Life is not the mere accumulation of virtues into a beautifu personality. It is as a contribution to the ife universal and the life eternal that its mission is fulfilled. The statement of salvation by character is not a sufficient one. Some of the most beautiful characters are most worthless. It is only as character issues in service that it enters into eternal life and has achieved salvation.

"It is the hunger and thirst after righteousness—the reaching forward in self-forgetfulness into the greater universal life, that coordinates the virtues, touches them with divine fire, melts them into a living soul that enters into and becomes a vital part of the eternity of things."

MARTYRDOMS OF CENTURIES SHOW THAT LOGIC, WITHOUT LOVE, SPLITS CHURCH INTO WARRING FACTIONS.

At the Universalist church yesterday, the pastor, Rev. C. Ellwood Nash, gave the last of the present series of discourses, intended to correct popular misapprehensions of the significance of Universalism. He said, in part:

"It is charged that our faith is a mere sentimentalism, a gush of carnal emotion; that having defied the Scripture, it proceeds to deny the demands of justice and the penalties threatened against sin, and to draw shallow inferences from the assumption that God is nothing but good nature and indulgence, who makes pets of His children, and humors them to the top of their bent.

"If it were true that the hope we proclaim were a cry of the heart alone, that it despises the intellect as a guide to highest truths, would not that be a noble stand? After all we feel better than we think. And if we lean upon our Father's fatherliness, is it not He who has invited us, is it not revealed that his essential nature is love? The battles and martyrdoms of the centuries have shown that the rigors of logic, untamed by the pleadings of love, evermore crucify the Christ, and split into warring factions the church He aspired to unite in one sublime, eternal integer.

"But when we admit the affections into partnership with the reasoning powers, we find it possible to satisfy both, and that on a clear and unquestionable Bible basis. The Psalmist, defines mercy as the rendering to every man according to his deeds,—which identifies mercy with justice. 'To praise his justice; even such His pitying love I deem,' says our prophet-poet. The chastenings of God are proofs of our human legitimacy, meant wholly for our good, explains the writer of Hebrews. God will give us all an unequivocal 'square deal;' he will not spare the rod and spoil the child, for having brought us into being He will see to it that his family is not finally divided nor His benevolent plans shipwrecked.

"All this follows immediately from the Scriptural portrait of the eternal Father. Any subtraction from these corollaries amounts to a repudiation,—of His love, which must have infinitely desired to confer only the largest possible happiness upon all his creatures, much more His children, and being inmate and immutable must forever desire that consummation above all others; of His wisdom, which having absolute acquaintance with every factor in the problem, every potentiality in the universe, and therefore with the perfect and certain solution of the problem could not fail; of His power, which it is a poor mockery to call almighty, if it can be thwarted by its own products, and forced to become the executive of the most awful catastrophe it is possible to imagine—to abide everlastingly with sin, which He hates with passionate and immitigable hatred, to continually breathe the breath of life into the wallowing victims of Hell, that so they may never know a moment's respite from their agonies.

"Yes, there is sentiment in this: the sentiment which falls back appalled from those infernos, which is eager to denfend the character of the Father from such dreadful aspersion, which pleads for the right to be heard of those gentler and humaner sensibilities which are the coronal fruits of the spirit of Jesus. But there is hard, close reasoning, too,—reasoning which starts from conceded promises and marches to inevitable conclusions. And even though the argument does not convince you, it must at least acquit us of the charge of proclaiming a mere emotion."

1st CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

MAN MUST GO TO GOD IN FAITH FOR RESTORATION POWER OF LIFE-CLEARING WELL WITHIN SOUL.

Rev. Dr. William Horace Day, in his yesterday morning's sermon at the First Congregational Church, spoke on the topic "The Shepherd's Song." He said, in substance:

"Homer and Dante and Milton and Browning, have sung, and man has climbed upward. But of all great poetry none has helped and inspired as this little song. It has dried the eyes of weepers, it has laid again the foundations for faith that could shake mountains. Across thirty centuries this poet sings the song of our own hearts in hours of need. It is so universal because so individual. Great as the contribution of modern scholars has been to our knowledge of the Scriptures when they tell us this psalm does not refer to individual need and sea naught but impersonal national aspiration with Agrippa, one is tempted to say thy much learning hath made thee mad. All the oldest critical traditions join in ascribing it to David.

"'He maketh me to lie down in green pastures.' After the hopeless barrenness of the hillside the flock is at last in abundance. 'He brings me unto the waters of rest.' Sheep fear running water. The shepherd builds a dam of stones and mud and lets the pool fill and clear. When it is full the sheep can drink without fear. What did you come to church for, this morning? Because you had a vague feeling that in the place of prayer you should find this refreshment of soul, the renewal of power. If the spirit of reverent quietness has been in your heart, you should receive the recreative gift of the Good Shepherd which brings preparation for energetic effort.

"'Tea though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death.' Not a few of us know the terrible danger of falling into the abyss of some deadly sin. Men climb up the long hard, way filled with sickening dread that they be not able to withstand. These men are fighting for character in deadly peril of the valley of the shadow of death. They need to learn 'I will fear no evil for Thou art with me.'

"The stanza closes 'Thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.' Here we touch the problem of God's permission of sin and pain. The shepherd carries both staff and club. The staff is the shepherd's crook for rescuing the lamb that has slipped. The rod is the big stick with which he beats back the foes of the flock and smites the wayward sheep. The gentle tender help of the staff is born of His love but no less is the stern painful blow of the big stick that drives the foolish ones forward to safety. When you return thanks for the comfort of the staff do not forget the chastening of the rod.

"The Good Shepherd stands in the fold door as the sheep pass in. He examines each. One is weary and he rubs the refreshing olive oil over its head and face. Another is thirsty. The cup overflowing is dipped in the jar of water beside him and the sheep quenches his thirst and runs, glad and free, into the fold where no harm can come. The song tells us of the real way to the only joy that passeth understanding. Man must go to God in faith for restoration of the power of life, clearing out the wells within the soul. Next he must put to valiant use the power thus received and when the day or week or life is done, 'weary but undishonored' the joy of achievement will be his. No stolid brazen soul that will not seek the Good Shepherd's no recreating help, no shirker in the kingdom of God, who will not use the gift of power can ever experience the joy of the fold."

PASTOR RUSSELL'S WEEKLY SERMON.

PITTSBURGH (Pa.).—Pastor Russell of Brooklyn Tabernacle gave two interesting discourses here to large and appreciative audiences. We report one of these from the following text; "Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people."—Proverbs 14:34. The speaker said:

Many besides myself surely were astonished to read the following extract from the Wall Street Journal, under the caption, "What America Needs:"

"What America needs more than railway extension and western irrigation, and a bigger wheat crop, and a merchant marine, and a new navy, is a revival of piety, the kind father and mother used to have—piety that counted it good business to stop for daily family prayers before breakfast, right in the middle of harvest; that quit field work a half hour earlier Thursday night, so as to get the chores done and go to prayer-meeting. That's what we need now to clean the country of filth, of graft, and of greed, petty and big, of worship if fine houses and big lands, and high office and grand social functions."

This reached the eye of Bishop Candler, whose comment is so appropriate that I cannot do better than quote it here:

"This editor is right in calling us back to more earnest forms of life than all these things involved. He wants religion in the home; he calls for lives of prayer; he insists that we need the most earnest type of religion to save the country from moral wreck. And he is right. But can we get that sort of religion under the spur of the motive to which he appeals? Hardly.

"We cannot get a revival of religion by seeking a revival of religion. Nowhere in God's Word are men admonished to seek religion or to seek a revival of religion. They are always urged to seek God. All the revivals of religion which have blessed the world in the history of the past have come when men have undertaken to seek God. None have ever come otherwise. We cannot deify even a revival of religion. God must be the supreme object of our love and desire.

"MEN CALLED PREACHERS HAVE EXPLINED AWAY THE WORD OF GOD."

"Hherein is our trouble—we have lost God. Men called preachers have explained away the Word of God, making it no longer a sure word of prophecy, but an antique for the critic to analyse and discuss. The moral law has been lowered. The ten commandments have been reckoned as a piece of Mosaic plagiarism applicable to the moral needs of ancient nomads in the wilderness, but have no more than a qualified bearing on the life of today. The Sermon on the Mount has been treated as 'An iridiscent dream.'

"The Lordship of Jesus Christ has been denied, while treacherous compliments have been poured out upon His name, as that of a great teacher and a noble martyr. His teachings have been defied or set aside wherever they have stood in the way of a rampant worldliness or an insurgent rationalism. The outcome of it all is that multiplied thousands have lost all knowledge of God in their souls. To all intents and purposes God is dead to them. They take no account of His will in any of their plans and doings, but live as if there were no God. They are atheists without taking the trouble to declare formally the atheism which they have inwardly accepted.

"The people must now be called to seek God. He is a real, living Perzon, and He will be found of those who sincerely seek Him. But He must be sought as the supreme need of the lives of men. He must be sought for His own sake. He will not be found of men who seek Him simply to remedy a bad commercial situation, or to cure social and political ills. He will not consent to be used as a sort of celestial and omniscient chief-of-police to help us suppress grafting and stealing and licentiousness.

"It is quite true that if all the people turned to God theiy would be turned away from every evil thing. But they will never turn to God until they feel that the worst disaster in life is that one should fail to know our heavenly Father. They must be made to feel the sorrowfulness of the orphanage of the soul until, like the prodigal of the parable, they begin to say, each within himself, 'I will arise and go to my Father.'

"We have had already too great a disposition to try to use God for all sorts of social ameliorations, moral reforms and political renovations. It is time now we sought Him for Himself alone. It is time we began to cry with the Psalmist, 'Whom have I in heaven but Thee, and there is none upon earth that I desire besides Thee.' Then indeed we shall find Him, when our hearts pant for Him, as the hart panteth after the water-brooks."

DIFFICULTIES IN THE WAY.

The words of the Wall Street Journal respecting the need of the old-time religion are along proper lines. The Bishop sees clearly what I also have so frequently pointed out, namely, that the so-called New Theology, Higher Criticism and Evolution theory have so undermined faith that it would be folly to look for a return of the pious earnestness of the past, which was built upon a living faith, even though it was not the pure faith, "once delivered unto the saints" (Jude 3).

We do not admit that none today are pious; that none are what St. Paul styled "sanctified in Christ Jesus" (1 Corinthians i, 3). We claim that there are as honest, as upright, as loyal children of God today as ever lived in the world. But they are few. The vast majority, under the false teaching mentioned by the Bishop, have utterly lost the "faith once delivered to the saints." The great majority of professed Christians are drifting. Long ago they gave up the creeds

NO FAILURE FOR THEM.

Moving Picture Man Elopes With Ingenue of "Is Matrimony a Failure?" Company.

For nearly a week has Viola Barry of the Burbank Theater Stock Company kept secret the fact that she had tacitly given her views in reply to the title of the play in which she is appearing, "Is Matrimony a Failure?"

Last Tuesday Miss Barry went to Santa Ana with John Conway, leading man of the Bison Moving Picture Company, and there did that for which most couples go to Santa Ana.

So when they returned Mrs. John Conway, still pretending that she was simply Miss Viola Barry, went to the Burbank Theater and played her part as if nothing had happened. But she had a few smiles to herself as the comedy unfolded its problem anent the advantage of being yoked to a member of the opposite sex for better or for worse.

Meanwhile Mr. and Mrs. Conway moved from their respective places of abode and took partments on Fifth street, and it was only when friends tried to locate Miss Barry at her former residence that they discovred the truth.

"Why did we elope?" said Miss Barry. "Well, you could hardly call it eloping now, could you? We weren't running away from anyone except our friends. Long ago I made up my mind that if I ever married, I would do it just as quietly and unobtrusively as possible. So when Jack convinced me that it was really what I wanted to do, we just went to Santa Ana and got married. That's all there is to it. I was just complimenting myself that we had eluded everyone, too."

SUFFRAGE "EASY".

getting what they want and obtaining it in so short a time.

"The press of the United States must be thanked for this progress," she said. "I have yet to pick up an American paper that has been really antagonistic, has slurred or sneered at the cause. In England the press has absolutely boycotted the subject of suffrage. Scarcely a line ever appears unless it is antagonistic. As a result the two suffrage organizations have had to start their own papers.

"The National Social and Political Union, which is the militant organization, the one that has caused many cruel things to be said about suffrage, established a paper, "Votes for Women," and the first year made £60 over expenses. Last year the same paper made nearly £10,000, which all is converted into efforts for the cause.

"The National Union of Women's Suffrage societies, the non-militants, of which I am a member, and for which I am investigating conditions in America, has established the 'Common Cause,' which has also been very successful.

"It is only through these two papers that we are able to disseminate our news, but we are doing it slowly. And just to think that the American women have accomplished in two or three years the goal for which we have been working for fifty years and have not yet arrived at.

"And there is no antagonism on the part of the men." Mrs. Wilkinson repeated this many times. She seemed out of her sphere in coming to a country where the men agree that women should have equal rights. "I have sought in vain for a real anti-suffrage man, and have yet to find him.

"The reasons I ascribe to this is that the women here are on a higher economic plane. They are the best friends that men have, are really what you call in this country, 'good fellows,' and for that reason they seem to have the greater confidence of the male contingent. Further, they are often in business, and that is something we know very little of in our country—the higher type of business woman who becomes a real estate dealer, a lawyer, architect or follows some other line. These are things which have brought the American woman her independence and are bringing her equal rights in the government of the country."

Mrs. Wilkinson will remain here only a few days before proceeding East and then to London, where she will make an extended report of her findings in America. She came to attend the wedding of her brother primarily, but decided also to add a tour of investigation.

MONTENEGRIN'S PRIDE HURT.

Although Stabbed and Robbed, the Severing of His Mustachios by Knife Thrust Grieves Him.

Lazo Clemosevich of No. 708 College street, a Montenegrin laborer, was held up and stabbed at College and Castelar streets night before last.

Clemosevich carried a wallet containing letters, papers and trinkets. Its neat size excited the cupidity of two men, believed to be Mexicans, who saw the Montenegrin expose it.

Clemosevich is a large and powerful man, and his warlike appearance was still further accentuated by his mustachios. The robbers did not take any chance. They went at him with long knives, without warning, snatched the wallet and fled.

Clemosevich's clothing was slashed and he was stabbed about the head and body. The most serious wound was a thrust which had entered his cheek at the corner of the mouth and came out on the outer side of the jaw.

Clemosevich winked at the wounds, but when he was informed that his big mustache had been severed and that it would be necessary to shave it off, he showed much grief.

PRAISES ALPINE ROADS.

Wealthy Texan, Visiting Here, Is Enthusiastic Over Switzerland's Splendid System of Highways.

E. H. Everett, a wealthy oil man of El Paso, who has just returned from a tour of Switzerland with his wife, is stopping at the Alexandria for a few days. The couple are accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. G. Tueri of Florence, Italy, who are in this country on a pleasure trip.

Mr. Everett says that the fertile valleys at the foot of snow-capped mountains in Switzerland, would make tourists from California feel at home over there.

"One of the most noticeable things in Switzerland is the fine roads," said Mr. Everett. "There are fewer railroads over there than in this country and the roads are depended upon to move armies in case of war. California should have just as good highways as are to be found in the old country.

If the United States ever gets into a war with a foreign power, the railroads here will not be of great use in moving artillery. In such a case we realize that good roads are as necessary for protection in time of war as well as for pleasure in time of peace."

it keeps me busy coming out here to keep track of my holdings and in touch with events," he said. "Your city has made great strides since I was here about four years ago."

Asked if his visit was not in connection with the spending of the $75,000,000 which the Southern Pacific has appropriated for improvements, Mr. Stillman was non-communicant.

"Whatever Judge Lovett has to say in regard to those matters is official. He is the only person authorized to speak on them," was his reply.

"Will you attend the conference at Santa Barbara between Judge Lovett and Mr. Ripley, president of the Santa Fe?"

"I will visit Mr. Ripley at Santa Barbara and I suppose Judge Lovett will also be there."

From Santa Barbara, Mr. Stillman and his party will go to San Francisco the latter part of this week.

TO EXPLOIT HOLDINGS.

Firth Properties to Be Well Represented at the Pacific Land and Products Exposition.

Emil Firth, who had twenty-eight Southern California land propositions on the market, ranging from a city lot tract to an orange grove, was among the first three business men of this city to contract for space in the Pacific Land and Products Exposition. He is a great believer in the advertising possibilities of the show and will make a striking display of the resources of some of his best orchard and farming properties.

Orange Vista, an orange-land tract near Perris, Riverside county, will be the feature of the display. Samples of soil and products will be on view and a Firth representative will be on hand day and night to answer questions and distribute advertising literature. His Fresno Valley tract, 46 miles east of the town of Fresno, will also be exploited. The Perris irrigation farms, another Firth enterprise, will also receive attention.

"We intend to do our part toward making the land show a success," said a representative of Firth. "Our display will be a very attractive feature and we will make a special effort to make known to visitors the land possibilities of Southern California."

The Palmer Oil company and the Southern California Hardwood Manufacturing company of this city have contracted for space. Their plans call for attractive exhibits.

MISSING GIRL IS FOUND.

Man Who Declines to Give His Name Discloses Hiding Place of Ethel Karr to the Police.

Miss Ethel B. Karr, 18 years old, who disappeared from her home, No. 4112 Wall street, Thursday night, was located by the police yesterday afternoon with the aid of an unknown informant, and is now at her home.

According to the report made to the police, after a disagreement with her mother, she went to the home of a friend and her hiding place was kept secret. Yesterday morning a man, who declined to give his name, read in The Times of the girl's disappearance. He knew where she was hiding and telephoned the information to the University Police Station.

An officer was sent to the address given and found the girl. Mrs. Karr was communicated with, and mother and daughter had a private conversation at the University Police Station. They left together and to all appearances, their differences had been settled.

COLOSSAL STATE BANQUET.

Federation of Societies Secures Consent of Ex-Vice-President Fairbanks to Deliver the Address on March 17.

The executive committee of the Federation of State Societies has fixed upon March 17 for the great State banquet, the first of which was held last year. It will be held at Hamburger's Cafe, and ex-Vice-President Fairbanks will be the speaker of the evening.

It is assured that over 3000 tickets will be sold, as determined by the pledges made by the different State societies. The tables will be arranged in the great hall, just as they are located on the map of the United States, so that it will be a simple matter for each guest to find his place. The officers of every society now have the tickets in hand ready for delivery.

The price will be $1 per plate, and prospective guests are urged to secure them at once, so that arrangements may be completed without delay.

FOR BRIDE AND GROOM.

A little private party was given Saturday night by Miss E. B. Crossley, No. 1742 West Sixth street, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph R. Deming, who have just returned from their honeymoon in the northern part of the State. Mrs. Deming was formerly Mrs. John A. Mason, whose husband died in this city something more than a year ago.

THEIR LICENSES.

In Alabama a minister is working out a $100 fine on the chain gang for preaching without a license. Alas, how many ministers deserve a worse penalty for the use of their licenses.

THE TEEMING MART.

Los Angeles people do not live in the streets, but they sometimes come downtown. A dime museum on Main street, last Sunday afternoon, presented the ossified man to the wondering gaze of 12,000 persons.

JAPS ON THEIR HONOR.

In urging confirmation of the Japanese treaty, the administration at Washington stated that the Japs were to be put on their honor regarding the restriction of emigration. We trust the idea will work out all right. In California, however, the practice is to make the Jap sign a bond.

WHY IT FAILS.

Friends of an eight-hour law for women concede its failure before the present Legislature. Undoubtedly, the bill was inspired by labor agitators, and not by any genuine wish to better the condition of working women in this State. It has failed by default. The many women's organizations in California have not supported it. They saw the serpent's trail in it.

THE LIFE OF CALIFORNIA.

Each man, according to what he is most interested in, will tell you what he believes to be the life of California. One will say it is in oil, another will name quartz mining, and so on, including the citrus, wine, sheep and alfalfa industries. But frequently you meet those who say that the life of California is in pretty girls; and, by ginger, there is something in that.

IBSENISM.

Some of the local dramatic clubs are suffering from violent attacks of Ibsenism. The truth is that Ibsen must be taken seriously, because he is one of the men who always deals with the truth as he has seen it. Ibsen endeavors to recognize a condition as it must appear to a majority of competent witnesses and then startles us by asking what's to be done about it.

CONSERVATION.

Speaking of the conservation of our natural resources, they seem to have a way of conserving themselves, or rather, as we might say, our resources seem to be inexhaustible. For instance, people used to argue, forty years ago, that the coal supply of Pennsylvania would be exhausted before the birth of the present generation, but there appears to be as much coal underground in Pennsylvania now as there ever was, paradoxically speaking.

THE CHOICE.

Murderers in Nevada are to be given a choice of being hanged, shot or of taking their own lives by drinking poison. A wounded snake will sting itself to death with the venom of its own fangs rather than die at the hands of the enemy. There is, however, no vital point to such legislation. Only laws that give humanity a choice of ways to better life have any real value. The man who commits a capital crime does not inspire sentiment that is sound, except the sentiment of distrust.

HEYBURN HOWLS IN VAIN.

Senator Heyburn of Idaho is the foe of immoderate and uncontrolled reservation of forests—which is all right. But he gives a wrong reason for doing a right thing—which is unwise. He wants the forests on the mountains cut down so that the floods may wash the soil of the hills, where it serves only for goat pasture, down into the valleys, which it will refertilize and rejuvenate.

Senator Smith of South Carolina called attention to the fact that the heavy rains of 1908 caused the Pedee, Lynches, Waccee, Congaree and Santee Rivers, whose highlands had been stripped of timber, to wash down on the plains, carrying silt and sand and rock to cover level alluvial lands. With withering scorn the Senator from Idaho turned on the Senator from South Carolina, even as an arched-back, spitting alley cat would turn upon a barking bulldog and exclaimed:

"What would you keep the soil up on the mountainside for? To raise pasture for goats? That is the only practical use to which it could be put. Bring it down where people live and enterprise exists. Suppose, for instance, in the few valleys here and there damage is done to some person or some thing by the rain that falls to replenish the earth that crops may grow. No blessing is uniform in its application in the world. Do not be afraid of the storm that brings down to you the soil from the mountainsides. On the mountainsides it may be detrimental, but it is not useful. In the valley it produces the wealth of this country."

But the Idahonian's eloquence fell upon unresponsive ears. The treeless forest reserve bill passed by a vote of 58 to 9. It might have been 58 to 10, but Senator Heyburn was enraged and exhausted and declined to vote.

The Weeks bill does not establish forest reservations as such. It only authorizes the commission, to be composed of the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Interior, the Secretary of Agriculture, two Senators and two Representatives, "to purchase such lands as, in its judgment, may be necessary for the regulation of the flow of navigable streams."

Southern California is not interested in the Weeks bill. There are no navigable streams which have their rise in or are tributary affluents from the western slopes of the mountains west and south of the Tehachapi, and there is only a limited quantity of timbered land held in private ownership.

A GREAT MANUFACTURING CITY.

Los Angeles is bonded for many millions of dollars to bring the waters of Owens River into the city. While the main object of this enterprise is to furnish the people with pure water for domestic purposes, and to provide an ample supply for irrigation in the city and in the surrounding valleys, yet, as an incident rather than an object of the enterprise, there will be generated 100,000-horse power of electrical energy which, if sold at the low rate of $2 per horse power per month, will afford a revenue large enough to pay interest on the bonds issued to defray the cost of the great aqueduct and extinguish the principal within twenty years.

The profitable utilization of power for manufacturing purposes depends first upon the supply of raw material in the vicinage of the manufacturing plant, or within the radius of economical transportation; second, the cost of labor, and third, upon the opportunities of marketing the manufactured product.

Raw material of various kinds can be readily obtained here. Ocean freight is cheap. The fir and pine timber of Oregon and Washington, the hard woods of the Philippines and of the West Coast of Mexico, will come to San Pedro in steamers and sailing vessels to be made into furniture and woodenware. The black copper of Arizona and Southern Nevada will come here to be refined into ingots and made into copper wire. Pig lead from the same localities can be made here into lead pipe, lithrage and paint. The borate of soda, of which there are vast fields in San Bernardino county, could be transformed into black soda, soda ash and soda carbonate for use on this coast; and, with the completion of the Panama Canal, would compete successfully in the East with the various commercial preparations of soda which are now made from kryolite imported from Greenland in Danish vessels. The wool which is now shipped East as it comes from the back of the sheep could be cleaned here and spun into carpets, blankets and other woolen goods. Hides could be tanned here into leather and the leather made into shoes and saddles and harness. Ore reduction works, grist mills, paper factories and many other industries could be profitably established.

One thousand-horse power, it has been demonstrated in eastern manufacturing centers, will keep busy a population of 5000 people. The power of the Owens River aqueduct will attract and sustain in Los Angeles 500,000 people, and when all the electrical energy shall be in use there can be an unlimited supply of fuel oil piped here and sold at a price equivalent to $1.50 a ton for coal.

Cheap transportation for raw material in and for manufactured goods out is a necessity for industrial development. So far as water transportation is available the Pacific Ocean is ours and, with or without the aid of a railroad commission, Los Angeles can depend upon having cheap transportation by rail. The railway companies will—it may be presumed—be governed by enlightened self-interest, and even if they charge "all the traffic can bear," the intelligent selfishness of their managers will cause them to fix rates that will develop and not discourage sources of traffic.

Greater Los Angeles will not depend upon climate and scenery and fruit alone for her greatness. She will be a great manufacturing city as well.

To secure and to hold the mighty industrial development within her grasp Los Angeles must possess her most valuable possession—industrial freedom. The right of employer and employee to freely contract and to fulfill their contracts without molestation from any source. Industrial slavery would spell commercial stagnation and decay. Let the merchants and manufacturers and home-builders and unfettered workers of Los Angeles remember that "eternal vigilance is the price of liberty," and that only cash payments will be received.

SUICIDE AND THE LAW.

The act of suicide has been recognized as an ethical crime by all religious and political thinkers. According to Christian doctrine, life is a loan from the Almighty, and—with one exception—may only be redeemed by the act of the Creator Himself. Suicide is the last refuge of the coward, says political economy, and if permitted by law, a source of weakness to the state.

In the light of these generally-accepted doctrines two modern decrees, one from the solons of Nevada and the other from Emperor William of Germany, afford much food for reflection. The Code Commission is presenting a somewhat startling legal innovation to the Legislature of Nevada by whose provisions criminals sentenced to death shall become their own executioners; being offered a few drops of deadly hydrocyanic acid with which to end their outlawed existences. From across the Atlantic, the Kaiser has declared that military officers who attempt their own lives are not amenable to civil law. In the Emperor's own words, "He is responsible only to God and his conscience. Therefore his deed can be judged neither by regular nor by honor tribunals." Nevada seems to be running counter to Christian standards and Germany to civic necessities.

Of course the poison cup for the condemned man is no new device. It was the common form of execution in ancient Greece, when Socrates was compelled to drink the fatal hemlock. However, it has never been used in Christian countries as a voluntary means of paying the most awful penalty of the law. To some minds it may even appear that the criminal is being compelled to add the crime of suicide to a soul already blackened by the terrible brand of murder. Logically this is not so; for no stigma attaches to the office of public executioner and the man who takes his own life under compulsion, especially when that life is already forfeit to the state, can hardly be classed among the self-destroyers. Anyhow, the greater crime of murder overshadows the lesser sin of suicide.

Emperor William's contention enters upon the much larger field of ethical jurisprudence. As it is, with suicide entered as a felony in the legal code of every country, self-destruction is increasing at an alarming rate. In the last decade the number of suicides in America was 22 per cent. greater than in the last ten years of the nineteenth century. Too many weak-minded men take this undesirable method of shuffling off the coil of their natural and moral obligations. Whether soldiers or civilians, this is not, as the Kaiser declared, simply a matter between themselves and their consciences; any weakness in the individual affects vitally the society in which he moves and the country to which he belongs.

Nor is suicide altogether the last refuge of the coward. Lord Clive twice attempted suicide in his youth and finally died by his own hand, yet no one can say that the conqueror of India was lacking in valor or physical courage. Stevenson, with his wonderful power for psychological analysis, told a very trenchant story of an individual who, after a series of heartbreaking failures, gradually sank into the inglorious lassitude of a beach comber in a South Sea island. Here he entered upon a last desperate enterprise which his inherent weakness and irresolution at the critical point turned into another abysmal failure. In sheer disgust with the world in general and himself in particular, he threw himself into the waters of the bay, resolved to end once and for all his insupportable existence. But to his dismay he found himself swimming ignominiously to shore again. From which we may induce the fact that even the last act of a coward requires a certain amount of resolution. One of the most curious cases of suicide on record is that of the German metaphysician who became so insanely concentrated on the problem of a future existence that he finally took his own life as the only way of solving the riddle. Indeed love itself has been known to prompt this indefensible act; a business man, broken down in health, took his own life so that his wife and children might benefit by his insurance; in this case the love defeated its own ends, for the policy became void.

As far as the sane and healthy portion of the race is concerned, the law of self-preservation will prevent the epidemic of suicide from spreading to any alarming extent. Despair, the hard conditions of the struggle, and especially bodily suffering and ill-health, will still no doubt drive some people to this desperate remedy. But the majority know only too well that no benefit can result from breaking either the human laws of a state or the divine commands of God.

COTTON FUTURES.

Congress is wrestling with the cotton speculators. A bill forbidding dealings in contracts for the future delivery of cotton where there is no intention to deliver has passed the House and is under discussion in the Senate. One section of the proposed law requires senders of telegraphic messages to take an oath that they do not intend to violate the law. Another section declares unmailable newspapers and other publications intended to promote future contracts, and requires postmasters to return to the persons mailing it matter declared by the act to be unlawful.

The bill in the form it was reported declares it to be unlawful "for any person to send or cause to be sent any message offering to make or enter into a contract for the purchase or sale for future delivery of cotton without intending that such cotton shall be actually delivered or received, or offering to make or enter into a contract where any party thereto, or any party for whom or in whose behalf such contract is made, acquires the right or privilege to demand in the future the acceptance or delivery of cotton without being thereby obligated to accept or deliver such cotton, and the transmission of any message relating to such transaction is declared to be an interference with interstate commerce among the States and Territories and with foreign nations."

The penalty is a fine of not more than $1000 nor less than $100, or imprisonment from one to six months.

Telegraph companies are forbidden to receive or transmit messages relating to cotton options. The last section requires the production of books and papers in actions brought to enforce the law.

The bill is one of the pieces of meddlesome legislation now in vogue. Suppressing the purchase and sale of cotton futures may benefit stock board and bucket shop victims, and it may not; but it will be an injury to the cotton planters. The options in cotton extend over so long a period of time that a planter who can sell at a satisfactory price cotton to be delivered eleven months thereafter may sell a future and then raise the cotton in ample time to make the delivery. This cannot be done with wheat or other grains, or with pork; the options on which are not placed on the stock boards more than four months prior to the date of delivery.

This effort to close the cotton exchanges of New Orleans and New York may be followed by an attempt to put an end to the Chicago wheat pit and the New York stock exchange.

CHARACTERISTICS OF THE INDIAN MAIDEN.

VIEWS OF MISS ESTELLE REEL.

Miss Estelle Reel, who twelve years ago was appointed by President McKinley superintendent of Indian schools, probably knows more than any other white woman about her copper-colored sisters.

"I always had their cause at heart," she says, "but something I witnessed years ago made me realize now much they needed help. I had been in the saddle a week, traveling through isolated reservations, when I landed one stormy night at a little hotel in a mountain town.

"Before I retired I stood at my bedroom window, looking down into the deserted street. Across the way, huddled in the shadow beside a mean saloon, stood a group of squaws. Each one had a papoose strapped to her back. The heads of the squaws were turned away from the stinging blasts of sleet; they stood silent and motionless, as Indian women do. Each one had a husband drinking in the saloon. She was waiting to take him safely home.

"In the morning I looked out of the window. It was still blowing, sleeting and snowing. There, ankle deep in slush, stood the little group of squaws. It seemed to me they had not stirred a foot. They were wetter, more bedraggled and their blankets were drawn tighter around them.

"The Indian woman will stick to a drink-sodden husband till he drops dead, or she does. The government is fighting the whisky evil on the reservations with every weapon it possesses, but the Indian brave will drink when he wants it and can get it—just as the white man does. A squaw knows nothing of divorce; she would not listen if you told her of it."

According to Miss Reel there is but one method to help the Indian woman: that is to educate her from childhood along industrial lines. Until a few years ago there was absolutely no future for the Indian girl except to marry. That was the first thing, provided she could find a decent, energetic, ambitious husband; only—there are so many of the other sort.

The educated Indian girl looks for a higher type of manhood in a husband than satisfied her mother. If she does not find her ideal she is perfectly capable of earning her own living. You may find in her any one of various traits that fit her for special work. She makes a superb nurse.

Hospitals which have trained Indian girls are making a constant effort to enlist others of the race. She has infinite patience, forbearance, generally a magnificent physique and no trace of the "nerves" which so often cause a breakdown among over-civilized races.

An Indian girl can go through the most trying surgical case with a stoical calm that is extraordinary. She never gets flurried, anxious or worried, and she obeys the physician as a soldier does his commander. In caring for cases of severe illness she seems to live on some strange reserve force and is a tender as well as a painstaking nurse.

Indian girls make splendid needlewomen. They inherit the skill their grandmothers put into bead work or basket making. They have excellent taste and an intuitive idea of good coloring. You find among them good musicians; they excel as teachers of their own people, and many have achieved high places as workers in the arts and crafts. As often as possible art is taught in the schools by an Indian woman, with a high regard for all that is best in native handiwork.—[Good Housekeeping.

ARE MEN INDIFFERENT, OR MERELY DENSE?

BY NEETA MARQUIS.

I cannot work up a very acute interest in the question of whether or not woman is by nature a modest person. All I need to do is to think of the many sweet, attractive women I know, and then look at the many bedizened, behobbled travesties upon womanhood one may meet any day on Broadway to realize that the question has two sides, as usual, with arguments and illustrations aplenty for each.

But I do confess to a mild curiosity on another point. Do men realize the strain placed upon the courtesy and good-nature of their friends by the time-honored masculine institutions of the tobacco breath and the over-long moustache? And if they realize, don't they care?

As to the moustache, I have nothing to add on the sanitary side of the case to what the hygienist has already said time and again. I will even forbear to comment upon the depraved nature of the germ which chooses such an abiding place for itself. It is the disastrous effects of the moustache on the innocent bystander of which I wish to speak.

Last spring I had a new light silk frock almost ruined through the agency of a moustache. The hirsute attachment was of that peculiar variety which projects like the roof of a bungalow, and of the sparse yet bristly nature of a decrepit toothbrush. It was standing near me at a reception and sprinkled me with fruit punch. I did not realize that I had been subjected to a shower bath until I went into the outer daylight a little later, and found brown spots on my shoulder where the acid liquid had spattered, and long, appalling streaks on my skirt where it had dribbled. The wearer of the moustache, doubtless a worthy, a most excellent man, never knew what havoc he wrought with that useless, ugly brush on his upper lip. But it nearly cost me my spring costume.

And I can't help wondering how many other moustaches of the same deadly variety are stalking through crowded reception rooms year after year, leaving a trail of sartorial destruction and feminine dismay in their wake, without their owners ever knowing about it. If there is an unemployed person at hand who is eager to start a crusade, it seems to me this matter affords an excellent opening.

And my quarrel with tobacco is just now on purely esthetic grounds, although the subject itself is so unesthetic that I quite hesitate to broach it.

The odor of freshly burning tobacco in either cigar or pipe is distinctly agreeable to me, provided I do not have to take it in clouds of smoke directly in my face. But the stale, tobacco-laden breath which many men, who are otherwise particular to the point of fastidiousness, bring into one's presence, is a surprise and great distaste to me.

I believe that such men do not appreciate the real offensiveness of this odor, for they are often persons who would rather be forced to rob a bank than to eat an onion before going out to keep a social engagement. I have played accompaniments many times for singers in every other respect delightful whose breath was so impregnated with the fumes of countless dead and buried smokes that I could scarcely sit at the piano when they had to read from the same music. I once played for a flutist who poured such a stream of tobacco-tainted air against my face that it nearly made me ill. And I know that none of these men would have been wilfully rude to me under any consideration.

The trouble is, they are not aware of how really annoying it is. I have understood that the prolonged use of tobacco destroys the sense of smell in the user. But it should be remembered that this favor does not extend to the person in the next seat.

I deplore the gum-chewing habit in girls and women—cigarettes I need not mention, for they are as undainty and cheapening as rouge and patchouli—but nothing fills me with much more regret than for a nice, sweet, wholesome looking boy to discover a breath heavy with old nicotine. It seems so out of keeping with just common cleanliness. Once in a while I am half inclined to envy a man the luxurious satisfaction he seems to find in an after-dinner cigar, but no matter how well and how favorably I may know a person, when I catch the odor on his breath which tells that his devotion to the weed is incessant and slavish, I always find my respect for him lessened.

UNCLE WALT.

The Poet Philosopher.

I have a home where peace abides, a cheap-john vine above the door; the fig trees shade the cottage sides—what millionaire could ask for more? My easy chair's beside the fire, my slippers waiting for my feet; and if inspired I have my lyre, to twang some anthems and repeat. When I come home, all tired and worn, my dear ones greet me at the door, and straightway sounds the dinner horn—what bank account could purchase more? I have a goodly appetite, and lots of room beneath my belt; I swat the victuals left and right, demolishing a want long felt. And there is cheerful talk the while, and music when the meal is o'er, and all around me wear a smile—what plutocrat could ask for more? When I am sick the neighbors come, and beg a chance to help me out; they bring me pills and chewing gum, and boneset tea and pie and kraut. They load me down with kindly deeds, so long as I am sick and sore, and minister to all my needs—whose roll of dough can bring in more? And when my little race is run, and I have perished once or twice, my friends will talk of good I've done, while I am lying on the ice; they'll give me, then, as best they may, a send-off to the golden shore, and that will help me on my way—what syndicate could purchase more?

WALT MASON.

A Lincoln Anecdote.

Harry Thurston Peck, the brilliant critic, was praising Lincoln at a dinner in New York.

"Lincoln, himself a superb writer," said Prof. Peck, "could not stand tedious writing in others. He once condemned for its tediousness a Greek history, whereupon a diplomat took him to task.

"'The author of that history, Mr. President,' he said, 'is one of the profoundest scholars of the age. Indeed, it may be doubted whether any man of our generation has plunged more deeply in the sacred fount of learning.'

"'Yes, or come up drier,' said Lincoln."

A Gem by Mrs. Taft.

Mrs. Taft's epigrams are the joy of Washington society. Her latest epigram was on the subject of beauty.

"She is beautiful, but not at all accomplished," a lady told Mrs. Taft of a western matron.

"My dear," Mrs. Taft answered, "there is no accomplishment more difficult than to be beautiful."

Lewis S. Stone, Marjorie Rambeau and the members of the Belasco company will tonight open at the Belasco Theater in Clyde Fitch's "The Truth." While "The Truth" is not a new play it has never yet been presented by a stock oranization anywhere.

In construction "The Truth" is a Fitch classic. It's speaking parts will allow the members of the Belasco company opportunities to exploit their talents. Mr. Stone will have the part of the husband, while Marjorie Rambeau should be seen to exceptional advantage in the role of Becky Warder, the young wife. The production will reveal some unusually fine stage settings.

"The Society for Historical Research has just discovered"—this is a quotation from the Antikuarian Magazine for August, 1976—"that 'The Campus' run was first noted as an unusual event in the year 1911, instead of in 1921, as Prof. O. L. D. Nuttygink has so long insisted.

"Moreover, a delightful note of human interest has been established in the equally interesting discovery that Walter DeLeon and Muggins Davies, the stars, are direct descendants of the historic old pair of the same name who died of old age and overwork after playing the same parts for upwards of forty years.

"A monument of Catalina granite is to be erected to that original Walter DeLeon on the campus of Los Angeles University. The present Walter DeLeon bears a remarkable likeness to his illustrious ancestor, and according to report will pose for the heroic statue which will top the shaft."

"The Campus," ninth week, Grand Operahouse.

"Is Matrimony a Failure?" is still engendering much merriment among large audiences at the Burbank, starting its second week yesterday with the call for seats still in full blast. One of the reasons for the success of this comedy is that it depicts, in more or less exaggerated form, nearly every type of married couples. There is the happy couple, the nagging couple, the woman whose husband thinks he hoodwinks her, the couple to whom matrimony has become a habit and who jog along comfortably as a consequence, the couple in love with each other but who magnify their little differences, and the couple who have inspired violent antipathies for each other, as well as a dozen or so other aberrations from the normal. At no time does the comedy reach the serious Ibsen or Sudermann plane, where one is really asked whether or not there should not be some middle path between being married and not being married. Rengo Belt Corsets

Close, long corsetting is a necessity if the right contour is to be gained—hips curving, but controlled.

Each RENGO BELT style is absolutely in accordance with fashion, fitting comfortably whatever posture the wearer takes.

Do you know that every Rengo Belt corset is boned with double watch spring steel, which is absolutely guaranteed not to rust; and that the reinforcing belt which gives the corset its name, is one of its chiefest points of merit?

Whatever your size, there is no reason why YOU cannot be fashionably fitted. And not only fashionably, but comfortably and hygienically, as well; it is the business of the saleswomen at our Corset Section to give you YOUR corset, because it is in stock. Ask to see the newest models in Rengo Belt corsets.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 26.—Johnny Coulon's title to the bantam-weight championship of the world was firmly established today when he won a clear decision over Frankie Conley, claimant, at the end of a twenty-round bout, at the West Side Athletic Club. Conley was outclassed, and only in two rounds did he have a shade the better of the contest.

The men weighed in at 116 pounds three and a half hours before the fight. About 6000 persons witnessed the contest. Tommy Walsh of New Orleans was the referee.

In frequent clinches Coulon was the superior and his short body blows told on the Kenosha lad. In the fifteenth round Conley sprained his left wrist and after that the Chicago boy had little trouble in landing telling blows.

The first round opened with Conley the aggressor, but the first two rounds were even with no damage done. In the third, Coulon shot a right swing to the chin, and in quick succession a jab to the face and a right punch to the stomach giving him a shade the better of the round. Honors were even in the fourth.

FLASH IN THE FIFTH.

In the fifth Conley put three rights to the ribs in quick succession, and took a right to the face in return. Conley's round.

In the sixth Coulon was staggered by a left to the stomach, but he came back with a series of short, hard body blows and the round was even.

In the seventh, Coulon had a shade the better in the final seconds, but he took some punishment early in the round.

The eighth was fast. Conley opened with a right to the jaw. Coulon shot a hard left hook to the stomach, followed by a hard left swing to the same place.

Coulon staggered Conley with a hard right to the jaw. He followed this quickly with a series of short lefts and rights to the face and body and had Conley against the ropes when the bell rang.

Coulon pelted Conley's face almost at will in the ninth. In the tenth, Conley's right to the face and glancing body blows were repaid by two uppercuts to the chin and a hard stomach punch. The eleventh was without advantage.

In the twelfth, Coulon placed several short jabs to the stomach. In the breakaway, Conley put a right to the face. Coulon finished the round with a rain of short-arm body punches.

Coulon did some brilliant work in the thirteenth. After taking several body blows, Coulon rushed his opponent and put rights and lefts to the face with lightning-like rapidity. Conley sent a light right to the face and took a left and right to the jaw in return. Coulon then swung a right to the wind, dodged a right swing and clinched.

The fourteenth was a tame round.

The fifteenth was Conley's but the round closed with both men fighting fiercely.

In the sixteenth, Conley landed a right to the body, followed with right to the kidneys. Coulon shot in four rights and a left punch.

Coulon shot in four rights and a left punch to the face and in a clinch sent a telling right to the stomach. Coulon's round.

Coulon played with Conley in the opening of the seventeenth and put four hard rights to the face. Conley got in two light body blows and Coulon finished the round with repeated rights and lefts to the face and body.

In the eighteenth Conley placed several good rights, but Coulon retaliated with short lefts and rights to the head and body.

A hard right to the stomach in the nineteenth brought a frown to Conley's face, but he was son chasing Coulon around the ring. He put a hard left to the body, received a right and left to the wind and then shot two lefts to the ribs. Conley missed two right swings but divided honors in the short jab exchanges before the bell.

The final round opened with a stiff right to Coulon's face. Coulon responded with several short body blows. Conley sent a short one to the face and received a hard jab to the jaw in return. In a breakaway Conley placed a left to the face. Coulon scored with half a dozen blows to the face and body, and ducked three swings. Another clinch followed and then he landed two more blows to the jaw. Conley sent a right to the stomach and two light right jabs to the face. Coulon put three more hard rights to the face and just as the bell sounded placed another on Conley's jaw.

All Over Again.

DARK FIGHTERS MAY YET MEET.

ONLY DRAWBACK IS GUARANTEE ASKED BY JOHNSON.

Langford Apparently Is Not Very Anxious to Fight the Big Champion—No Money for Promoters in Matching Two Blacks—White Hopes Some Distance From Front.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] There is much talk now, that Langford and Johnson are to met. It may come about that the two blacks will be signed, but there is no immediate possibility. Johnson knows, as he has said a number of times, that there is little money in matching two men of color. That holds good more particularly in the United States than it would in England or Australia. Johnson can hardly be accused of dodging Langford as Joe Woodman would have it understood, but he is holding to his original claim.

Long before he came to California and even at the time of his arrival, he declared he was open to meet any one in the world, Langford included, if he was guaranteed $30,000 for his end. No promoter sems to be anxious to step to the front with any such offer and it is apt to be a long day before such a purse is given.

It is quite possible also, that Langford is not so desirous of going against Johnson as he appears to be. After Langford disposed of Jim Flynn so easily, the negro was quoted the next morning as willing to meet any one in the world. Joe Woodman hurried to the Frisco newspapers office to explain that such a sweeping statement was a challenge, that Langford would met any one, bar Johnson. Of course Woodman may consider that Sam has improved sufficiently since then. However, that may be, the old adage still holds good that a good little man can't beat a good big man.

The outlook for the "white hopes" cannot be too encouraging. There are now two colored hurdles for the hopes to take before they get to the front.

OLIVE BANK ON FIRE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 26.—According to advices received here today by the Merchants' Exchange, the four-masted ship Olive Bank, laden with coal and coke, is on fire at her dock in Santa Rosalia, Mex. There is small hope of controlling the fire, and it may be necessary to scuttle the ship.

POWELL-BURNS BOUT TONIGHT MEANS MUCH TO THE VICTOR.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Boxing history during the week makes the scheduled twenty round bout between Lew Powell and Frankie Burns for Monday night of far more importance than it was seven days back. Boxing dope may be hard to figure, but when you reason out that Frankie Burns beat "One Round" Hogan; that Knockout Brown whipped Ad Wolgast and that Hogan has since had as good as a draw with the New York lightweight, it must be conceded that the winner of Monday night's contest will have right to challenge the near champions and the champion.

Burns is a coming boy, just as is Hogan, but he will be against an experienced ringster when he faces Lew Powell, and it will take all of his worth to win. If he can turn the trick, however, he will have plenty of reputation.

It will not be likely that he can force a meting with Wolgast in a hurry, but he can take another Eastern trip, if he desires and have a chance at any of the top men in his division.

Powell is not regarded with any particular favor as against Burns, judging from expressions. There is more than one shrewd follower of the ring who thinks that Powell has shot his bolt. This seems to be shown to a certain extent in his gymnasium quarters but comes more from his Eastern record. Powell's trip to New York was disappointing even if you accept in part his own account of what happened, instead of the newspaper stories.

Burns is a tough boy to beat. He is not sufficiently aggressive to make a popular man in the ring. The fans do not like the tactics of the boy who covers up and shoots out a punch at intervals from behind his barricade. If you will analyze Burns' bout with Hogan you will recall that he did more boxing than he was given credit for. It is quite true he was on the defensive much of the time, but when he did punch, it was with a will that fairly carried Hogan off his feet.

He may assume more of the aggressive against Powell. Hogan always fared better with a man who is coming. Burns may have realized that and planned his battle accordingly. He will find a different type of boxer in Powell and, in order to make a showing that will win for him, will have to do more rushing.

Too Much Class.

MOTOR RIDERS FIGHT MEXICANS.

SAN DIEGO CLUB AGAINST IT AT TIA JUANA.

Go to Little Town on a "Run" and Get Into a Free Fight in Street. Rurales Approach and the Riders Escape But One, Who Is Caught and Made to Pay Fine.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispath.] A crowd of 150 American motorcyclists, including a number of women, engaged in a riot with Mexicans and rurales on the main street at Tia Juana today. Lee Carey of El Cajon, was jailed. Two San Diego police with the party insisted that Carey be given immediate hearing. Sub-prefect Larroque held court in the open and declared Carey guilty of disturbing the peace, for which he was fined $5 Mexican coin. Carey paid this.

The Americans were members of the San Diego Motorcycle Club which made a run to Tia Juana. Reaching the Mexican town at noon the riders stacked their wheels in the street and proceeded to seek refreshments. A crowd of Mexicans, it is charged, ordered them to remove their wheels.

Instantly there was a free-for-all fight. Although no weapons were drawn the Americans scented the approach of a company of rurales. All except Carey jumped aboard their wheels and crossed the line where they dared the troops to molest them. Carey's wheel would not move and the troops quickly surrounded him and led him to jail. Two local policemen who are members of the motorcycle club recrossed the line and secured Carey's release.

What's the Answer.

GIVES RACING KNOCKOUT BLOW.

BALKE AND SAMUELSON RECEIVE FIFTY-MILE LIMIT.

De Rosier's Wire From Oakland Keeps Fast Men From the Track and Coliseum Programme Is Called Off—Fast Time Is Made in Two Exhibition Runs.

Jake DeRosier, manager of the Indian motorcycle racing team on the coast, practically killed the racing programme at the Coliseum arranged for yesterday when he telegraphed from Oakland and forbade either Balke or Samuelson to enter any match under fifty miles. No reason was given, but as Jake has entire control over the Indian racers, his word is law with them and with these fast cyclists out the management decided to call off the entire programme.

About 1200 persons, the largest number that has attended motorcycle races for several months, left the field disgusted when it was learned that the scheduled matches would not be pulled off.

Two exhibition runs were made, but as these were only two miles in length, they were hardly enough to pacify the crowd which had come out expecting to see the best races yet pulled off on a local course.

Samuelson lowered the track record for two miles when he made the distance in 1 min. 32 2-5 seconds in his exhibition run. The old record was 1 min. 37 seconds made by Lingenfelder two years ago. McNeil went two miles in 1 min. 37 2-5 seconds.

Opinions as to DeRosier's reasons for restricting the Indian riders to fifty mile races differed. Those in charge of the races said it was because Jake was afraid Balke would beat Jake's previous records. Owners of the other machines figured that DeRosier was afraid the Indian riders would be beaten in the short races.

Efforts were made by the racers themselves to arrange a fifty mile match so that the programme could be pulled off, but the management would not guarantee sufficient for the riders to take the risks.

Motorcycle racing will likely be dead in Los Angeles for a long time as the result of the failure of yesterday's schedule. The small attendance at the races for several months had caused much dissatisfaction among the riders, as they race on a percentage basis, and the returns have hardly warranted the risks.

The keen desire among several of the local profesionals to defeat the others was the only inducement for them to sign for yesterday's matches, and with the Indian riders drawn out the honors left were not inducement enough, with the small returns, to justify them speeding around the course at a break-neck gait.

BROTHERS SHOT BY SAME GUN.

Peculiar Hunting Accident Reported From Illinois—One Youth Dead, Another Fatally Wounded.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

FIELDON (Ill.) Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] His brother, William Miller, lying dead at his feet, in the bottom of a skiff, and himself badly wounded, Fred K. Miller of Jerseyville rowed a burning boat to shore and sank unconscious after he had staggered to a farm house.

William, 18 years of age and Frederick, 16, went duck hunting on a lake. They were returning to their home by way of a drainage ditch when the shooting occurred.

Though both were shot with the same gun and from different directions the theory of some is that the shooting was accidental. After landing the boat in which his brother's body lay, Frederick walked a quarter of a mile to his home. To his father William Miller, who met him at the door he gasped "Will is dead." Then he collapsed.

It was found that a charge of buck shot had entered his lung and his coat was burned. Physicians said he had no chance to recover. Apparently the the gun lying in the bottom of the boat was accidentally discharged wounding Frederick and setting his clothing and then the boat on fire. It is believed that William went to his brother's aid and attempted to extinguish the flames and that in clambering over the bottom of the skiff he in some way caused the gun to be accidentally discharged a second time. The charge struck him in the left temple instantly killing him.

Members of the family say that the brothers had never quarreled.

equally as speedy. Then he threw Hunt's fast grounder to Gardner at second in time to help complete a double in the fifth inning.

ALL IN A BUNCH.

The Regulars made all their runs in the third when they fell on Buck O'Brien like a house. Gardner opened this with a long two horse swat to left and skipped to third when Buck threw Purtell's beauty sacrifice bunt widly to first. A moment later Tris Speaker smacked another double to left which scored Gardner and put Purtell on third. Speaker got funny at second and O'Brien would have picked him off but Priepke made a bad muff of the throw and both Purtell and Speaker scored when the ball rolled into right field.

Duff Lewis poled a nice single to right and after Wagner had popped to Priepke(Duff ran to third on Bradley's single to right but died there when Hooper fouled to Janvrin, the child wonder.

After this inning O'Brien concluded he had about enough for one day and Red Hunt took his place in the box and the Squabs could get but one single off him in four rounds. This single and two sacrifices but Kleinow on third but he got no further. Sawyer was put in to fling for the eighth inning but there was nothing doing with him either.

SQUABS BEGIN EARLY.

The Squabs started their first run when Perry drove a sharp grounder to Purtell, which was juggled. Kleinow had a short passed ball which put Perry on second and he easily scored when Yerkes binged a single to right.

Arellanes flung for four innings for the Regulars and was replaced by Joe Wood for the fifth, but Joe's arm was sore and he quit after one inning. He passed the first man and soused the next one with the ball, but caught Priepke off second, so the umpire said, and the other two were retired on a double play.

Moser took a chance in the box in the sixth against the Squabs, and he looked so good to them that they rode him around the ring for a run. He fanned Perry, but Engle hit for a single to left and Nebringer for a double to left. Yerkes was an easy out at first but Riggert slapped the ball to center for a single and Engle scored. Killilay pitched the ninth inning. The score:

NOTES OF THE GAME.

J. W. Burns umpired and made a lot of the spectators laugh by some of his decisions. If he is doing a little spring training for an umpire's job he should work at it hard in both the summer and winter. Two of the "out" decisions he made at first base were almost out and the fans asked for another umpire to be warmed up.

Priepke backed up a wild throw to first base in the third and would have thrown Purtell out at first if Engle had tagged the runner. There was some class here.

Arellanes's sacrifice toward first base in the fourth was a peach and Gardner followed with one equally as good toward third a moment later.

With Priepke playing off second in the fifth Wagner motioned to Nunemaker, who in turn signaled to Wood, of trouble. Wood turned like a flash and shot the ball to Wagner. The ump called Priepke out, but a number of others evidently could not see that far from the bleachers and did not think any out was made.

Speaker got the laugh in the fifth. He was first up and in ducking the ball hit his bat, and rolled to Hunt who easily made the assist to first. All this time Speaker was on the ground for he had ducked himself into a tumble.

Perry made a pretty catch of Speaker's long fly to deep center in the first.

Hunt fanned Bradley in the eighth to the intense disgust of the first baseman, who objects to being struck out.

That ump stuck the harpoon into Riggert in the eighth. Rig hit a grounder to Buzick, playing in Gardner's place, and the throw to first was made, after a juggle. The first baseman had to jump away from the bag to stop the ball, but the ump called Riggert out. At that he was—almost.

Nunemaker acts like a good catcher should and reminds one very much of Charley Graham of the Sacramento team in the old days when Graham used to be good.

Wagner made a beautiful grab into the dirt at second for Engle's lawn mower in the seventh, and, of course, threw his man out.

Heaver Sawyer winds up like a double-jointed man when he pitches and he not only scares the batsman but gets a lot of speed out of his contortions.

There is no use telling about the way the outfielders caught all the fly balls that were knocked out. Mr. Thum's preparation for flies and fleas had nothing on those fellows on the outskirts.

TEAMS TO START TODAY.

VERNON AND ANGELS READY.

The Los Angeles and Vernon ball teams are scheduled to begin their spring practice today, the Angel team on the Praeger Park grounds, at Washington and Main streets, and the Vernons on the Vernon grounds. There will be both morning and afternoon practice, if rain does not prevent.

Dillon of the Los Angeles team expects to have about twenty-four men to begin work with and there were three absentees last night. Aiken and Delmas are expected to arrive this morning and Metzger is to leave St. Louis today for this city.

The catchers will be Abbott and Grindle and the pitchers are Tozer, Delhi, Thorsen, Klein, Criger, Wheeler, Agnew, Coleman, Crips of Olinda, Concannon of Highland Park, and Lockhart, the Indian, from Mendocino county. Dillon, Conley of Imperial and Beal of Azusa, will try for first base; Howard and "Uncle" Johnson for second; Akin and Metzger for third, and Delmas and Rawlings for short. Daley, Peck and Phillips will be in the outfield. Bernard will not practice at present and the team is still short an outfielder promised by Pittsburgh.

All but four of Hogan's men are expected to be at Vernon. Castleton will be here March 3; Stinson and Patterson tonight, and Brackenridge is to leave Harrisburg, Pa., for this city next Saturday.

CUBS START SOUTH.

WHITE SOX GO MONDAY.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—Eighteen members of the Chicago National League baseball club, under Manager Frank Chance, departed today for West Baden, Ind., to begin training for the 1911 season. Half a dozen players will join the team at West Baden and the recruits will meet the club at New Orleans next Saturday, making in all thirty-four men in camp.

Neither pitcher Overall nor Catcher John Kling has advised Manager Chance when he will report, but it is expected both will join the team early in March. Starting March 5, exhibition games will be played in New Orleans and then the team will begin a tour northward, playing games in the principal cities and reaching Chicago April 7, for four exhibition games.

Members of the Chicago American League Club will depart for Mineral Wells, Tex., tomorrow night, on the annual training jaunt. After a few days' practice, the squad will be divided into two teams and each will play twenty-two exhibition games before returning to Chicago, April 12. Twenty-five players will make the trip south, but more will join the team en route and at Mineral Wells.

QUEER FINAL GAME.

CROOKEDNESS HINTED AT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The last game of the season on the local diamond between San Diego and the Leland Giants proved to be a farce and smelled of such rottenness that after the sixth inning Longnecker refused to umpire.

As early as the fourth inning Winston, a Giant fielder, walked to the bench and refused to play unless Gatewood was removed from the pitcher's box. It was claimed by some of the players that the game had been "fixed" so that San Diego would win. Actions of the gambling element in offering two to one bets on the locals caused several of the Giants to demand that Gatewood be removed and he was succeeded by Mooney.

The game dragged along twelve innings, the Giants finally winning 7 to 4. Lafferty pitched for the locals.

The morning game was won by the Giants in 10 innings by a score of 5 to 4.

WALKOVER FOR CLAN CAMERON.

CINCH THIRD PLACE IN SOCCER LEAGUE GAME.

Scotchmen's Decisive Victory Over the Victorias Largely Due to the Goal-keeping of Webb—Their Play Was Aggressive and They Had All the Best of the Contest.

Clan Camerons won an easy victory and cinched third place in the soccer league when they defeated the Victorias eleven 7 to 0 yesterday, at Praeger Park.

The decisive victory of the Scotchmen was largely due to the goal-keeping of Webb, who filled that position for the Victorias when their regular goal-keeper did not show up. Webb was a star some fifteen years ago, and according to tradition, but proved a joke in the game yesterday. His only excuse for remaling in the game was the amusement he furnished the spectators by his clumsy efforts at defending the goal.

The Clans had all the best of the contest. They played more aggressively than their opponents, and Goal-keeper Sanderson had little chance to star. He played his usual spectacular game when the Vics did work the ball down the field, and take a shot. This was so seldom, however, that the crack little guardian stood shivering in the cold most of the time.

Three hundred persons who had gathered to see the contest, instinctively crowded toward the Victorias goal as most of the playing was in that half of the field.

Robinson shot the first goal for the Clans after about ten minutes of play. Winchester made the second, after a pretty kick from the touchline on penalty had brought the ball directly in from the goal.

"Red" Egan made the third point. The goal-keeper charged out to meet the ball as it left "Red's" toe, but kicked wildly into space as the ball hit a bump and passed nimbly between his legs Goal-keeper Webb also was responsible for the next goal made by the Clans. He fanned at the ball as it came sailing through the air and knocked it fairly between the posts. The remaining points were made by Robinson, Ball and Gerrard.

MUSIC AND STAGE.

tions verge toward such a problem, there suddenly comes a deft twist of plot and it ends in a huge laugh.

"Motoring," funniest of all vaudeville plays on automobiling, will headline the Orpheum bill beginning this afternoon. It is presented by Harry Tate's English comedians, and all the familiar characters, including the "ahaw" Englishman, the "yes, pa-pah" boy, the interfering street Arab, the policeman, and the "I don't think" chauffeur, will be in evidence to make merry for all who love—or hate—a gasoline wagon. A thrilling act in every detail is that presented by Mlle Vallecita, who will offer her cage of trained leopards, said to be the only ones ever handled by a woman.

The coming of Fannie Ward next week to the Orpheum should afford women a sartorial treat. Miss Ward has a wardrobe of the very newest London garb, and her furs are especially fine, including a $17,000 Russian sable cape, and a complete suit of ermines, muff, stole, and wrap. Her gowns are all the product of a certain titled London modiste, and bear the cachet of approval.

With the Three Roehrs in their cycling act of looping the loop in a revolving globe as the particularly thrilling headliner, Sullivan and Considine will this afternoon open another all new bill of eight acts at the Los Angeles Theater.

Next week the management announce Mabel McKinley as the headline attraction. The usual matinee every day and two performances every night will be given.

Financial note: Jay Barnes at last has a real suit of regular clothes. John Blackwood has the gout. There is said to be no connection between these simultaneous though different manifestations of the microbus affluencus.

Ferris Hartman has about perfected plans for a second company in Ocean Park, at the Casino. This organization, which might include Robert Leonard, Myrtle Dingwall, Marta Golden and one or two others equally well-known here, would play during the summer season, in which Mr. Hartman would tour with the parent company.

It is still the plan that Walter De-Leon and Muggins Davies shall head a traveling "Campus" company, some time next season.

Friends of Joseph Galbraith, who recently returned from an extended theatrical engagement in the North, assert that he is likely to succeed A. Byron Beasley—temporarily, at least—as leading man of the Burbank stock company.

HAREM SKIRTS FIND DEFENDER.

Dr. Mary Walker, Pioneer in Usurpation of Masculine Nether Garments Pleased at Paris Mode.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OSWEGO (N. Y.) Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Dr. Mary Walker thinks the adoption of harem trousers by the Paris dressmakers is a vindication of her long fight for masculine dress on women. Dr. Walker is now living at Bunker Hill, near Oswego. It was fifty-five years ago that Dr. Walker began to wear trousers and a silk hat. She betrayed great courage, because she was made a target for the liveliest ridicule and even abuse.

For years she was connected with one of the departments at Washington, and during all that time she had many scuffle with the opponents of her principles and adventures which gave Washington much amusement.

She was frequently told she could not except to be treated like a woman unless she dressed like one, and when she snatched a cigar from the mouth of a smoker in a department elevator, she was told to go home and put on skirts if she wanted to receive the defference accorded to her sex. Dr. Walker always held that she would have had many followers if other women had not been afraid of being ridiculed by men.

DRUMMOND HITTING UP PARIS.

Millionaire Fugitive From Bigamy Charge Reported Enjoying Life in Gay Capital of France.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch. Charles R. Drummond, a fugitive millionaire bigamist of St. Louis, is seeing the gay life of Paris, according to nformaton receved by his relatives in St. Louis. Whether a girl from the United States is with him is still a matter of speculation for his relatives, although they received dispatches February 17, which stated that Drummond was on his way across the ocean.

They believe he never will serve his sentence of six months in jail at Clayton for violating his parole, after pleading guilty to bigamy by eloping to New York with Agnes McClanahan of No. 4057A Shenandoah avenue.

Drummond married Charlotte Vincent, under an assumed name, in a Clayton fathskellar while he was the husband of Charlotte Bente, his second wife.

Drummond has relatives in Pasadena and Los Angeles.

EXPLOSION IS MYSTERY.

St. Louis Police Unable to Solve Cause of Early Morning Disaster Which Wrecks Buildings.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 26.—An investigation by the police, lasting all day, failed to develop the cause of the explosion this morning in the Italian section, which partly wrecked two buildings. No arrests have been made. The force of the blast was outward, which leads to the belief that a pocket of gas formed in the walls or flooring and became ignited. No one was seriously hurt.

Summers, the chief of the Tiger twirlers, caught one of Clark's swift ones and sent it over the left field fence, running home with clean bases in the sixth.

In the last half of the ninth, McBride, shortstop of Washington, put the ball over the fence, but his home run like the other three, was made with empty base.

Big Stanage, the Detroit catcher, played center field for a few innings and made some swell catches after record breaking runs across center field or from deep center to second. Score: of the "dark ages," and, believing that the Bible taught the same things as the creeds, it also is being abandoned as too absurd for present-day intelligence. Higher Criticism (another name for infidelity and opposition to the Bible), Evolution, Christian Science, Theosophy and Atheism have swallowed up the majority of the intellectuals of the Churches, and the mediocre masses are rapidly following them into the outer darkness of unbelief and godlessness.

AT THE CHURCHES YERTERDAY

It is impossible for an honest man who has lost his faith in God, and in the Bible as the Word of God, to take a real heart-interest in prayer-meetings, in Bible study and in attempted holy living. He finds nothing substantial for his faith to rest upon. He scorns to be a hypocrite. Hence the old-time religious life is not to be generally expected.

ON MODERN REVIVALS.

Modern revival methods (slangy talk, clownish actions and a pretense that rising to one's feet in a public assembly means Christian reformation and spirit-begetting) is too foolish for thinking people of the class represented by the editor of the Wall Street Journal. It is not for us to say that absolutely nothing is accomplished, and that all fall away who, under excitement, stand up to be prayed for, or to indicate that they prefer to spend eternity in bliss rather than in torture. We do, however, mean to say that such persons are bewildered, if no worse, and a year after, we fear, are as bad or worse than the year before. This is because they are not really converted—because they have no real foundation for faith given them, and no faith to put upon such a foundation. They are not even what St. Paul styles "Babes in Christ" (I Corinthians iii, 1), for only the spirit-begotten belong to that class.

WHAT IS REALLY NEEDED.

The revival really needed should not be looked for nor expected amongst worldly people. They have nothing of Christianity to revive. It should begin with Christians who have not yet lost all their faith in God and in the Bible. These should become awakened to the fact that spirituality and faith are at a low ebb. Their prayers should ascend to God, and their Bibles should be studied as never before. They should make use of present-day helps in their Bible study and become fervent and revivified of spirit through a better understanding of the Scriptures. They must see that the Bible was not properly represented in the creeds of the past; that it is in direct opposition to many of the doctrines of the past which have justly become repulsive to intelligent minds.

When once they get the proper focus on God's Word, one passage illuminating another, their faith in God and in the Bible will become a living one, a moving one, and, with this spirit, faith and works will come—Christian zeal, fervency of spirit in the service of the Lord. With these in turn will come activities in helping one another, activities in family worship, in Bible classes, in prayer and testimony meetings, etc. Then, as the Master said, they will let their light shine and the worldly will see and be influenced by these living epistles, known and read of all (II Corinthians iii, 2).

It is useless for any to attempt to believe, or to attempt to teach others that God is great, and just, and loving, while at the same time teaching that He prepared, before the foundation of the world, an immense torture chamber in which thousands of millions would be forced to spend eternity. How our forefathers could believe this and yet believe somehow or other that God is Love we do not understand. It was their faith in God's Love, and not their faith in eternal torment, which constituted the power of God working in them for good and which offset the errors of their creeds to a large degree. But no one of today who is at all awake can any longer think of worshipping a God inferior to himself. A God unjust and unloving, or unkind and powerless, can no longer be worshipped in spirit and in Truth.

What the world needs, and what first of all the Church needs, is to get doctrinally straight in respect to the Almighty's character, and in respect to His purposes for His human creatures. As soon as the condition of mind shall have been reached there will be no need to pray or ask for revivals of religion—they will follow irresistibly.

But what do we see opposing any such desirable denucement? We see two hundred thousand Protestant ministers and Sunday-school superintendents working against such desirable results. We see about two-thirds of them advocating higher criticism-infidelity and one-third of them striving to hold the people in ignorance respecting the teachings of the Bible concerning man's future—seeking, by inference at least, to uphold the atrocious doctrines of devils foisted upon God's people by the great adversary during the "dark ages." It is a sad picture. Has it no silver lining?

THE CLOUD'S SILVER LINING.

There are still a saintly few in the world who are not bowing their knee to Baal, not worshipping the golden calf of mammon, not wandering, not seeking to prove that they are descendants of monkeys, not seeking to figure God out of creation and to say that nature is God. In this time, when others are going into outer darkness, these children of God, feeding upon His word, are being blessed and refreshed in spirit as never before. To them God's word is shining more brightly as the days go by; the rough places are becoming smooth and the dark places clear. To them the glory of the divine character is being revealed. The secret of the Lord is with them. He is showing them His covenant and making them to understand many of the deep things of His word, which the natural eye has not seen, nor the natural ear heard, neither have these things entered into the heart of the natural man—things which he hath in reservation for them that love Him.

These are now seeing that the kingdom for which He taught us to pray is not a myth; these are seeing that it did not come at Pentecost, nor when Papacy was established, nor with the establishment of any of the sects of Christendom. Consequently they are now praying from the heart, "Thy Kingdom come," and waiting for the glorious Messiah, promised to bless His great work of blessing natural Israel and through Israel all the families of the earth (Acts xv, 14-17; Acts iii, 19-23.)

These see that the kingdom of God's dear Son is to be one of "power and great glory;" that before it, in a time of trouble, every other religion and influence will crumble to dust; that Satan shall be bound, and for a thousand years the most blessed influence favorable to righteousness will be brought to bear upon mankind.

Intelligent people no longer believe the God-dishonoring doctrine of eternal torture, nor even the doctrine of purgatorial suffering. Having lost these, they are doubting every religious teaching. What they need to see is the Bible's presentations. They should see the "high calling" now extended to the faithful, saintly few and should sit down and count the cost before undertaking so great a contract as to become members of that royal priesthood.

If they do not accept this, the only call now extended, they should have in mind that there is a general law of retribution operating expressed in the terms, "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." They should understand clearly that every thought and word and act of theirs will have to do with their future conduct and affect them more or less favorably in the resurrection, when Messiah's kingdom will provide to every man a full, gracious opportunity of restitution to human perfection in a world-wide Eden.

To the kingdom of Messiah belongs the promise, "Righteousness exalteth a nation." His will be a reign of righteousness, and, by divine direction, will have control of the whole world for the uplifting of all mankind redeemed by the precious blood of Calvary. At present, in every kingdom under heaven we see exemplified the latter part of our text, "Sin is a disgrace to any people"—to the whole world. Let us accept the direction of God's word and set our faces toward righteousness with greater zeal than ever-to attain Divine favor either by the "high calling" of this present time or by the blessed restitution times soon to be ushered in (Acts iii. 19-23.)
